After defeating St. Mary's for the third straight year, their principal Dennis Reitenwald awards the golden football to Coach Wonderly and an exuberant Struck man.

One example of St. Joe's great spirit is this bleacher creature, alias Mike Psoo, who showed up to help inspire the crowd at the St. Mary's pep rally.

Many Vibrant Colors Merge To Form The Collage of Life

As the different colors of the spectrum blend together to create the single, unified effect of a rainbow, so did the individuals of St. Joseph Central Catholic fuse together to generate the sparkling aura of their school. Although the year wasn't filled with constant excitement — the flurry turned off and on like a neon light, yet never quite stopping completely. The students and the events themselves seemed to fill the air with a luminous radiance that reached out from each individual to touch the rest of the community. This culmination resulted in producing a year unique from all others.

It takes plenty of perseverance and endurance for George Ebrman to bypass his Harrow opponent on his way to a strong finish in this 2 1/2 mile race.

With correct technique in mind, Cheryl Swint concentrates on setting the ball again and again just before another long, hard practice begins.

A Little Goes A Long Way

The individuality of each person was highlighted during the year because the theme of this year's student council was "The Year of the Streaks: E.P.C." E.P.C. (every person counts) was strongly stressed throughout the year and it took the combined efforts of each person to make SJCC's student body a strong and spirited unit. The assorted talents, qualities and attributes of each individual were pooled together to benefit the school and the community.

As Mary Hart clocks his progress, Joe Myers attempts with great difficulty to devour a peanut butter sandwich at the Homecoming pep rally. The contest was won by junior Jim Kusner.

As the Oak Harbor game goes on, two of the dedicated football trainers, Greg Lauer & Tim Foos, make quick repairs on a helmet so it will be ready for the next defensive series.

At a Friday pep rally, Karen Dailly and Beth Vanner get prepared for the upcoming SBC, daily against Vanderbilt, St. Mary's, Central Catholic, by getting their friends.

Keeping with tradition, the Christland Archdiocese gives a new identity to the St. Joseph's football team.

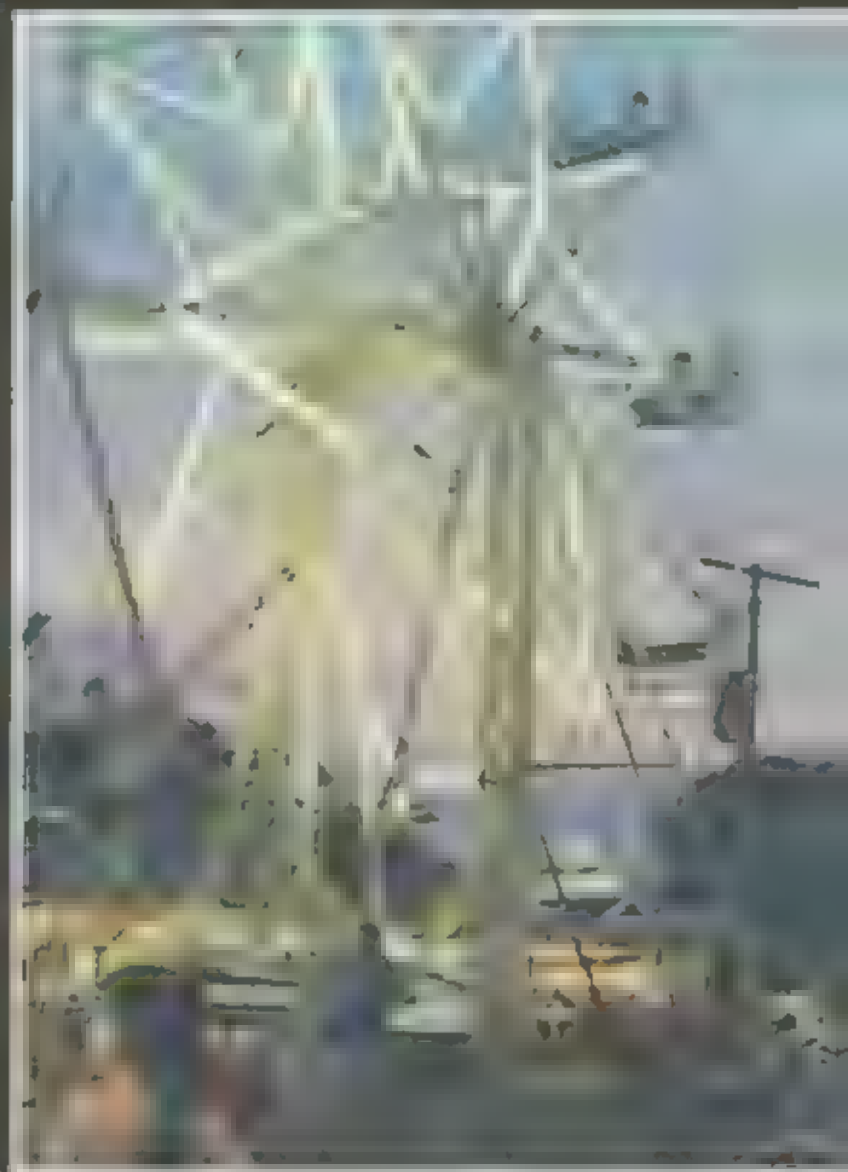

The Minicome provides an opportunity for Mr. Ray Darr and Jan Frederick to make in a polka between cleaning up tables.

Life

The exuberant St. Joe's student body celebrates in the stands of Harmon Stadium after a streak-breaking victory of four touchdowns against Port Clinton in the Homecoming game.

The roller skating fever hit Fremont as a group of enthusiastic seniors take over the rink to try out their "feet with wheels." Making use of the new skating rink are Sherrie Mayh, George Bloomman, Laurie Bodnar, Jack Hoffman, Sarah Hawk and Paul Hruschel.

Let The Good Times Roll

F was there leading the pack little kids again.

With sheer determination and a gut iron stomach, Mr. Rich Flitz attempts to finish off yet another pitcher of that good ole' German beer, while working diligently in a ticket booth at the Oktoberfest.

Pure talent in the fine art of roller skating is exhibited by Mike Poon as he attempts once again to pick himself up off the floor of the new rink.

The Spirit Leaders Come On Strong

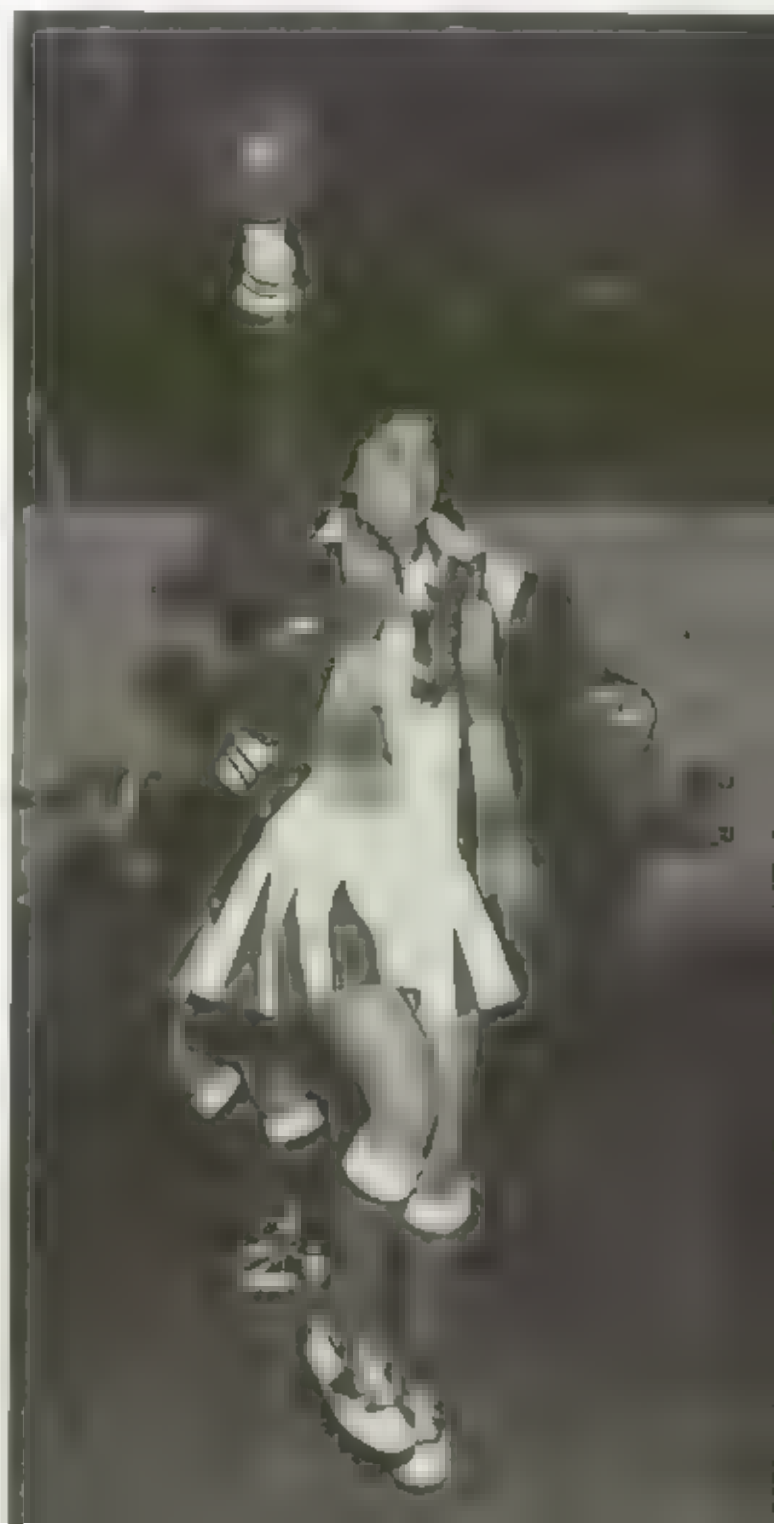

The SJCC cheerleaders were the spark plugs of the school spirit once again this year. They strengthened this spirit at the pep rallies and games by keeping the students jumping and cheering in the stands. The cheerleaders, however, were busy long before school started. From June 18 to the 21, they attended U.S.C.A. Camp All-American at Waldenwoods Conference Center in Hartland, Michigan. They received the second best all around squad award. Lisa Baumer and Jan Frederick won individual awards.

Since football season started earlier this year, the cheerleaders and fans were plagued by mosquitos. Lisa Baumer demonstrates how to get rid of them as Jan Frederick watches.

For their pom-pom routine to J. Geils' "When the Walls Come Tumblin' Down," the squad was invited to Grand National Competition in Lansing, Michigan, August 21-24. There, they spent 3 days with some of the best squads in the nation. They received first place in the spirit sign division for the "Success" quilt that hangs in the St. Joe gym. It was made by last years' varsity cheerleaders.

In July, the cheerleaders held a clinic for girls in grades 1-8. Seventy girls attended and they learned lots of cheers, chants and routines. "It was hard work but worth the effort," Jan Frederick commented on the clinic.

August 16 brought competition at the Ohio State Fair, where they received fifth place out of 50 squads for their "Show-time" cheers.

The cheerleaders were always behind the St. Joe teams as they won or lost and everyone could see that they were winners, too!

Lining up on the back steps of Birchard Library are the reserve cheerleaders: Ann Mendenhall, Denise Dye, Rutha Freeb and Wendy Wall.

As the final buzzer sounds and the Homecoming cheer begins, Mary Hart, Deb Coleman, Laurie Miller and Cindy Miller begin celebrating.

Friday Afternoon Live!

One of the best ways to observe the St. Joe spirit was to attend a pep rally. These rowdy assemblies were truly fine examples of what the words pep rally really mean. Summoning up all the energy which had been locked up within them the entire week the students exploded with excitement, which filled the gym and spilled out into the hallways. All of this energy combined with the skits, chants, cheers and contests of the cheerleaders, kindled great anticipation among the student body and a great desire to win among the athletes. The spirit was so tremendous this year that it prompted one older faculty member to say, "The pep rallies this year were some of the best we have had in a long time."

The Boy From Belgium

A new face was added to the St. Joe student body this year. Bernard Horwood, 18, a foreign student from Enghien, Belgium, enrolled at SJCC to learn about the United States.

Bernard arrived in the United States on August 8th and stayed at the home of senior Bob Steinberger. He came to America to learn about its language and people. When he returned to Belgium, in July 1981, Bernard planned to attend Marie Hayys College, where he would study to become an interpreter.

During his stay, he didn't notice many differences between the United States and Belgium. However, students in Belgium spend a greater part of the day in school. Classes start at 8:15 and continue until 11:30. Then they go home for lunch until 1:35, when the afternoon classes start. Classes end at 4:05. By answering questions and pronouncing words correctly, he was a great help to the French II class. Bernard also helped with the production of "Blithe Spirit", the play put on by the drama class. This was a difficult task, and he executed it with excellence.

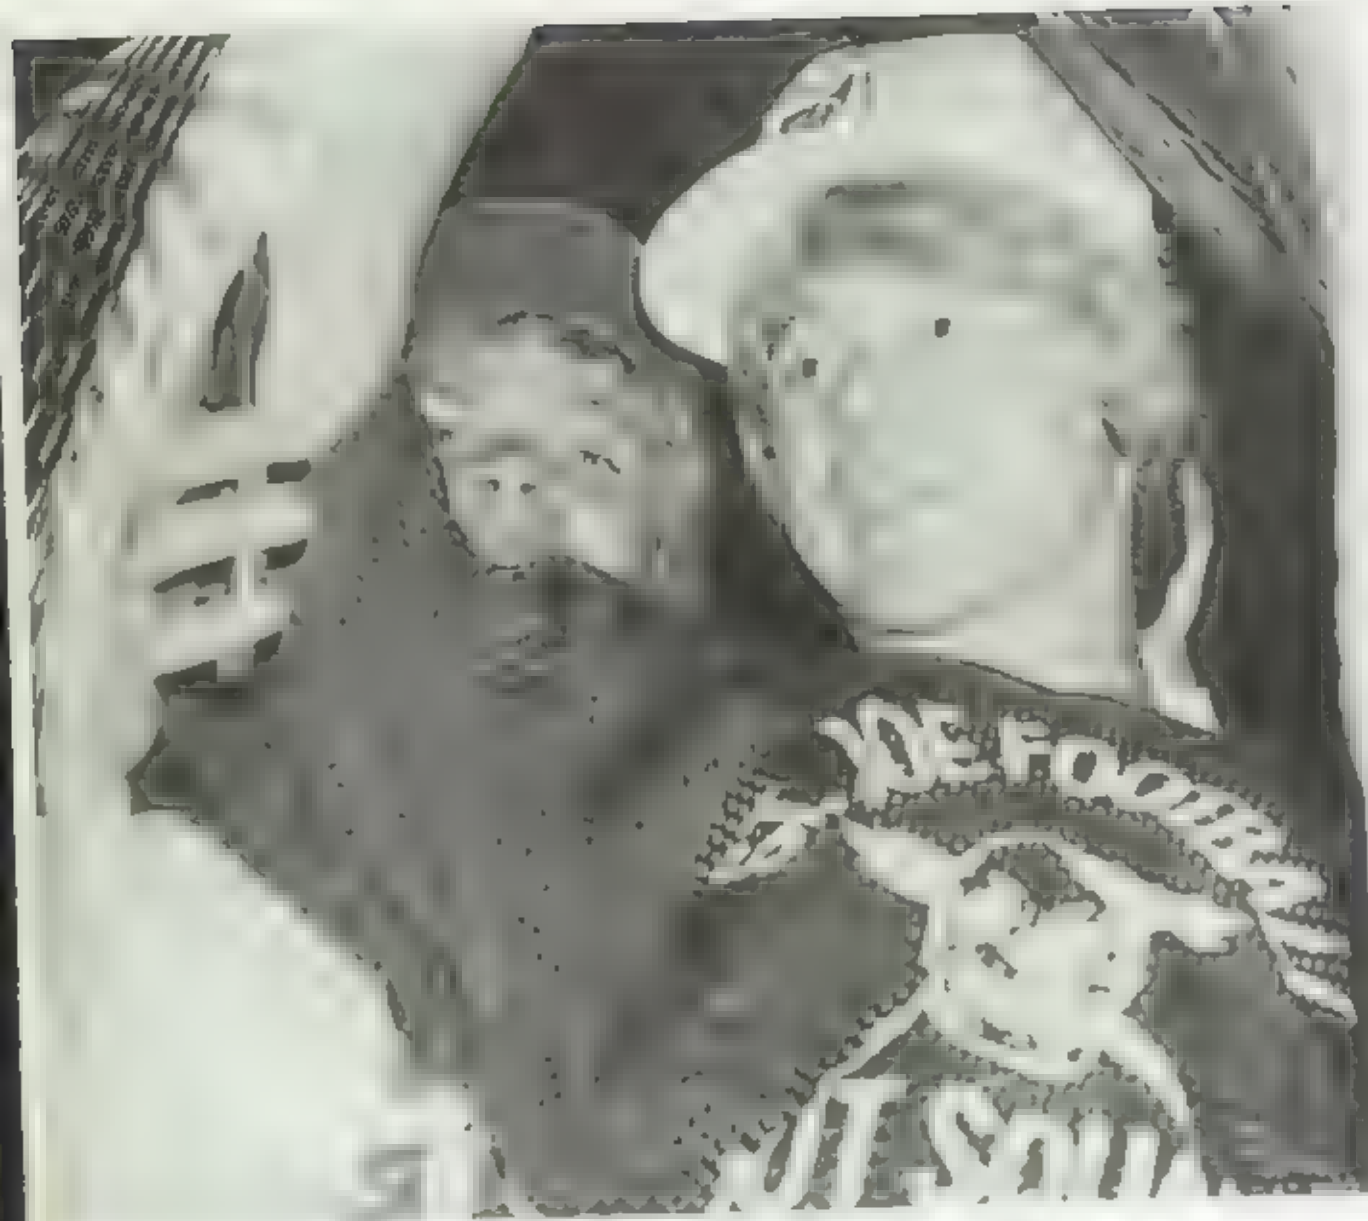

The individuality of each student was highlighted this past year, and Bernard Horwood was no exception! He added his own unique personality, and brightened up the entire student body.

At the first home game Bernard Horwood gets a chance to see how Americans play their brand of football. Sitting with Bernard is Bob Steinberger, who's family is hosting Bernard's stay in the United States.

In another day, Bernard Horwood, Tom Wilson and Mike Farnsworth are all preparing for the pep rally.

A strong sense of pride and accomplishment overcomes Dan Leste and Ron Darr as they pose with their float, which they transformed into the Muppet characters for their float.

Wooden braces for their float are being built by Mike Sullivan and Mark Coleman.

Frustration and fatigue are only a few of the many moods felt by even a winner as the winning float is being made. Mike Reardon is no exception.

Artists & Engineers Pool Their Talents

It was four weeks before the coming weekend and the flurry had begun. It was time, once again, for the traditional building of the Homecoming floats. With the theme being the "pets", the characters ranged from Kermit the Frog to Miss Piggy to Dr. Teeth and the Electric Blue Mayhem band. At first, all the students had to show was chicken wire, wood and tons of tissue paper. Although the heartbreak of broken motors and the frustration of making frames into figures sometimes got to the students, they somehow made it through. Slowly but surely the transformation became more and more evident, and the floats that emerged would have made Jim Jones proud.

Sparkle And Shine The Halls Were Divine

It was the beginning of the Homecoming celebration. It started small, with an almost insignificant number of people, but as the evening grew older the gangs of students filling the halls grew larger and larger. The freshmen halls were so crowded that one might have thought school was in session. Almost every freshman was there to add his own personal touch to the decorations. The loud rock music filtering throughout the senior hall only seemed to enhance the spirit which grew stronger and stronger with each and every inch of crepe paper that was hung on the once empty walls. The colors were as varied as the many incredible characters of the Muppets, which was the Homecoming theme. To a casual observer it looked like mass confusion, but the end result was three floors of magnificently decorated passageways. Each one was chock-full of balloons, and crepe paper, and tin foil and signs and SPIRIT! A spirit that was deep rooted, rich and strong in each of the four classes. A spirit that was not only shown on this weekend but throughout the entire year.

Students help in decorating the halls with crepe paper and other festive items to make the homecoming celebration.

With each person adding their own touch, the freshmen incorporate a special feeling of unity as they work together on decorating their hall to celebrate the Homecoming.

Homecoming Memories

The victorious game the night before provided a festive mood and wonderful basis for the dance. Everyone was in high spirits and ready for a memorable night, and memorable it was for many reasons. One of the most obvious reasons was that the dance was held in the St. Joe gym for the first time since Homecoming was started back in 1969. The band "M-80" gave a spectacular performance that kept everyone out of their seats and many out of their shoes.

Miss Piggy, Kermit and a host of other "Muppets" appeared as decorations in the gym, along with rainbows, balloons and multi-colored crepe paper. The giant mirror ball suspended from the ceiling scattered rays of red and white light throughout the gym and set just the right mood for a crowd ready to celebrate.

The students left the dance with many happy memories and perhaps a touch of romance. It was truly a magical night in which everyone found their own "Rainbow Connection".

Potential Pulitzer Prize Winners

It was common knowledge that many of SJCC's students were of the highest quality and whenever there was a trophy or award being given, one was almost assured that one of St. Joe's finest was on the receiving end. For example, Marybeth Boyer was named Outstanding Junior of 1979-80 by BGSU. Lori Gable and Monica McDermott went to Buckeye Girls State, and Steve Neiling went to Buckeye Boys State where they learned how our government is run and took mock governmental offices. In the American Government Test, Jack Hoffman was the highest scoring boy and Jan Frederick was the highest scoring girl.

Mark Dickman and Jodi Sanzo were the second highest scorers. The students who received these awards put forth an effort above and beyond the call of duty. It wasn't easy, but with patience and determination, they came out on top.

There were also students who gave up part of their precious summer vacation time to attend various seminars and workshops, such as Laura Foos, Deb Dye, Kathy Daubel, Ed Steinbauer and Tim Barbour who went to Oakland Univ. and Mike Reardon and Dan Leite who went to Kent State to learn how to put together a Yearbook. These students returned with a wealth of ideas and plans to help their organization succeed to its fullest potential.

After taking the American Government Test trophies were given to Jack Hoffman, Jodi Sanzo and Mark Dickman.

A yearbook workshop sponsored by the Detroit Free Press at Oakland University during July gave Tim Barbour a chance to learn how to do layouts and other helpful information for yearbook class.

A Trip To The Past

On Feb 27th, some bizarre occurrences took place at St. Joe. Students were entering the school in jeans and tight T-shirts, while others wore poodle skirts and bobby socks. There were several sinister-looking individuals in leather jackets and chains. As far as the eye could see down the halls there were letter sweaters, saddle shoes, class rings on chains, and an ocean of Brylcreem

Surrounded by Saturday enthusiasts, Kelly Carle shows her flirt at the pep rally.

A busy weekend of studying is what Lisa Baumer has planned as Tim Cullen helps check her book out of the library.

The annual '50's day pep rally was made all the more exciting by the original chants the cheerleaders made up, the 1950 style dance accompanied by the senior guys and especially the Bubble-blowing and Goldfish-eating contests. '50's day had made its appearance again and the students dressed for the occasion. The pep rally was reminiscent of the days when eating goldfish was cool, and colored socks were for nerds. The whole gym vibrated with the sounds of '50's day songs, dances and cheers as the whole school went all out to make '50's day a success.

"This Everchanging World In Which We Live In"

There were many events that touched the lives of those associated with SJCC during the past year. Three of the most significant ones were: the holding of the hostages by Iran, the sudden death of John Lennon and the presidential election.

On November 4, 1979 the U.S. embassy in Tehran was seized by Iranian student militants and 53 American diplomats were taken hostage. There were many attempts made to free them. Most of these attempts were diplomatic, but there was one military attempt which ended in eight U.S. servicemen being killed. The new leader of Iran, the Ayatollah Khomeini demanded the return of the Shah, the former leader, and all the wealth that the Shah took with him when he fled Iran. The Shah entered the U.S. for medical reasons and this prompted the takeover of the embassy. The Shah left the U.S. to take up residence in Egypt, where he later died.

Finally after 444 days, an agreement was reached. The U.S. agreed to cancel all lawsuits against Iran and also to release eight billion dollars in frozen Iranian assets.

2.8 billion was sent directly to Iran, while the other 5.8 billion was put in escrow accounts to pay off Iranian debts.

When the hostages were finally on the planes coming home, America went wild with joy. Huge yellow ribbons decorated trees and buildings across the nation, including Fremont. The hundreds of thousands of prayers were finally answered when the hostages returned on January 25, 1981 and were reunited with their families.

By tying yellow ribbons around the pillars of the Sandusky County courthouse, the city of Fremont and the county joyfully celebrates with the rest of the nation the release and return of the 52 American hostages.

On December 8, 1980, the world was stunned by the senseless murder of ex-beatle, John Lennon. As he walked outside of his New York apartment, a man approached him, called out to him and then shot him four times.

The grief, wonder and shock of those who idolized him reached an intensity almost equaling that of the world when John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Radio stations from Los Angeles to New York began week long tributes to Lennon and record stores around the world reported selling out of Lennon's new album, as well as many of his earlier LPs. The world lost a good musician and one of the greatest contemporary composers, but the fact that Lennon was just starting his comeback made this tragedy even more saddening.

The presidential election of 1980 differed from many in the past in two ways. First of all, Ronald Reagan was the first movie actor to run for the presidency and secondly it was one of the few times that there has been a major third candidate for the office. This third candidate, John Anderson did take away some votes from President Jimmy Carter, but in the end the popular vote was very close between Carter and Reagan.

The three major political candidates for president of the United States in 1980 were Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan and John Anderson.

President Carter, however, only carried six states and the District of Columbia for a total of 49 electoral votes. Mr. Reagan was a landslide winner in electoral votes. Other events which had some effect on the nation or the world during the last year include: the eruption of Mt. St. Helens, the Texas heatwave, the earthquake in Italy and the fires that destroyed two hotels in Las Vegas; (in sports) the Phillies won the world series, the Raiders won the super-bowl, Cleveland's Brian Sipe was named MVP in the NFL and Bjorn Borg won his fifth Wimbledon title while Jack Nicholas came back to his fourth U.S. Open.

Closer to home, new construction in Fremont included a roller skating rink, a Stroh's canning factory, a Rax restaurant and a Dandy Donuts. SJCC's students also went to the movies to see "The Shining" and "The Empire Strikes Back" or they sat at home watching "Shogun" or who shot JR?

Within the last year the world lost the following people. Do you know who they were? (Answers on page 168) Mohammed

Seniors

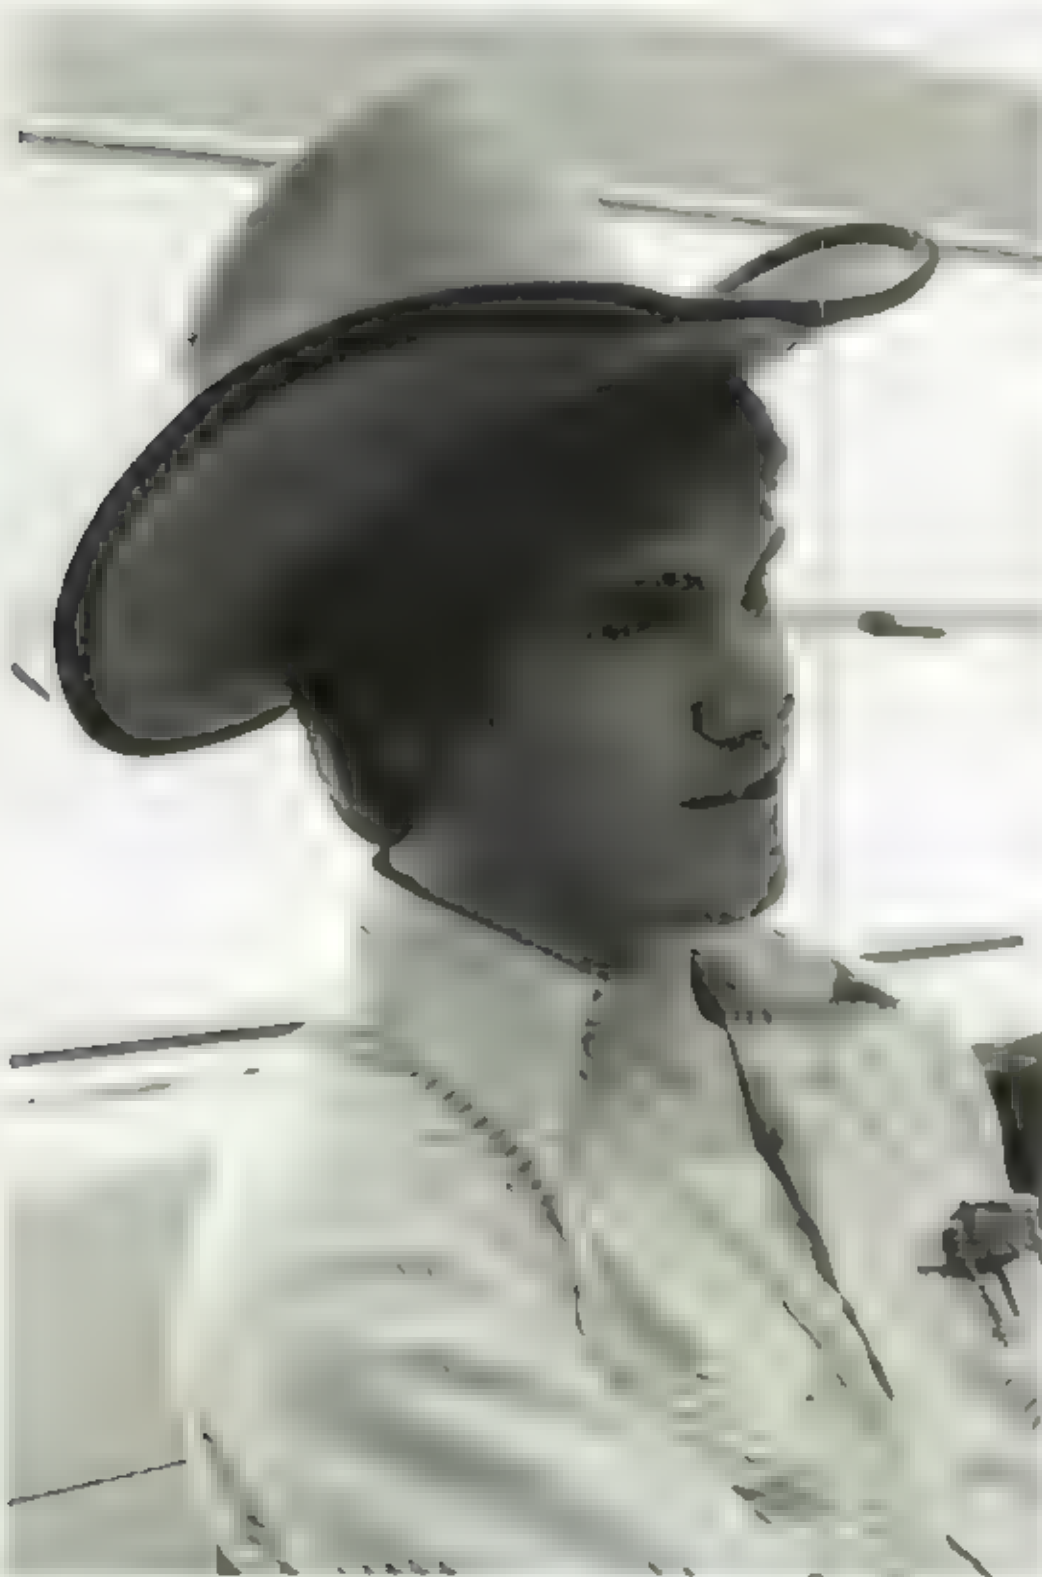

Senior spirit is at its height for the annual football pep rally as a few of the senior football players show what can happen when they work together. Their pyramid was judged best of the four classes and the seniors won the spirit award for the week.

You've Got Personality

The personalities of the class of '81 varied from serious and somber to the mildly insane. To the casual observer, they looked a bit grim in their blazers and ties, but on closer observation one could see a wide variety of characteristics and attitudes.

11. $\{f_k\}$ is a sequence of functions in $L^1(\mathbb{R})$ such that $\int_{\mathbb{R}} f_k(x) dx = 1$ for all k .
 12. $f_k(x) = \frac{1}{k} \chi_{[0, k]}(x)$ for all $k \in \mathbb{N}$.

The Many Facets Of Senior Vitality

With the final ring of the 2.30 dismissal bell on Friday, the seniors scattered off, each to go their own way and do their own thing.

Their own things ranged from practicing their volleyball skills, to sitting down for a long, relaxing night of poker. In between these two extremes, almost anything could be found. Many athletic types tested out the new rollerskating rink. Some ended up with highly polished skating skills, while others ended with polished pants!

Some seniors had jobs to run off to. After all, they did need money for the basic necessities of teenage life! These jobs ranged from flower and newspaper delivery to hospital kitchen work to department store work, and on, and on and on.

That Special Flare

Seniors, seniors, S-E-N-I-O-R-S . . . It seems that when each of the classes finally becomes seniors, they acquire a brilliant school spirit and the seniors of "81" were no exceptions. They had a certain sparkle, a special flare that was absent from the rest of the student body. Sure the juniors jammed, the sophomores shined and of course the famous freshmen were always there, but the seniors had an unique radiance that the rest of the school could only envy.

This senior phenomena showed in all of the activities in which they participated but not as clearly as in the various pep rallies held during the year. One of the most unforgetable rallies was the one visited by the Blues Brothers — alias Brian Burns and T.J. Wurzel.

complete their float in time for Homecoming. The theme this year was "The Muppets" and the seniors chose the Rainbow-Connection for their float

"Ouch! — Chickenwire!" There were many hardships involved in building a first rate float. Staple guns with no staples, tons of tissue paper to cut, but never enough to stuff, and miles and miles of paper towels to separate; but at halftime of the Homecoming game, it all became worth while when the seniors took first prize

Overflowing Spirit

Senior spirit didn't just limit itself to inschool activities during 1981. Many seniors participated in outside enterprises that spread their energy to numerous other people. For example, four senior girls ran for the title of Queen of Hearts, which was given to the girl who collected the most money for the Heart Association. This money benefitted many people

Many seniors also held down part time jobs, which ranged from hospital kitchen help to pizza making. Not only did these endeavors give them extra money, but they also gave the seniors some good work experience

TEC: The Experience

No, it's not Superman — it's just Sue Ackerman, shaking to the song "Father Abraham" at TEC.

Teen Encounter Christ abbreviated, TEC was made available to juniors and seniors from schools all over the Toledo Diocese. Many students from St. Joe CC took advantage of this opportunity and went to TEC unknowing of what the weekend would bring. New friendships blossomed as the candidates opened up to each other. TEC was not just any ordinary retreat and one can't find the meaning of TEC in a Bible, it has to be experienced.

When asked what TEC meant to him, Jeff Streaker answered, "TEC #121 changed my entire life . . . it really changed my attitude towards everything." Sarah Hawk, from TEC #120 responded, "It was a time for me to open up and find out who I really am. TEC was, and will continue to be a loving, sharing, caring, growing experience found in Christ that lasts for a lifetime."

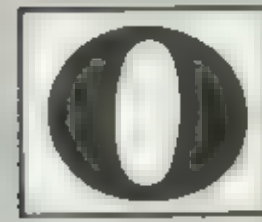

As they join together at TEC, Jodi Kramb and Betsy . . . one with their new found friend and C.C.

Delighted with her encounter with Christ, Sarah Hawk radiates her enthusiasm to Ken Suant, Tim Cullen and Jodi Kramb who have shared the . . . of TEC.

Voices and Values

On January 22, 1973, the Supreme Court declared that abortion was to be made legal. Many pro-life groups showed their opposition by marching in protest. On the 8th anniversary of that fatal decision, many of the students at St. Joseph exhibited their disagreement to that law by staging their own pro-life march. The students carried banners and cards promoting life and marched around the court house. After the march, they all attended a special mass supporting the pro-life movement.

Every Friday there was an optional mass for any students who wanted to attend. A big part of this celebration was the folk group, who would play and sing at each mass. The folk group displayed a wide variety of talented people, from students who could play the bass, to those who could sing soprano. The folk group members put a lot of time and effort in learning new songs and practicing old ones. They gave up time after school, free periods, and open lunches to faithfully appear at their rehearsals. All work paid off though, as they lead the students in singing and added the beauty of their music to the mass.

St. Joe students participated in the Right to Life march against abortion. Leading the way with the Hands of Life banner are Brian Jordan and John Spader.

Music was an important part of the celebration. Members of the Folk Group, Brian Jordan, John Spader, and John Spader, are seen harmonizing during an optional mass.

Time Well Spent In Service

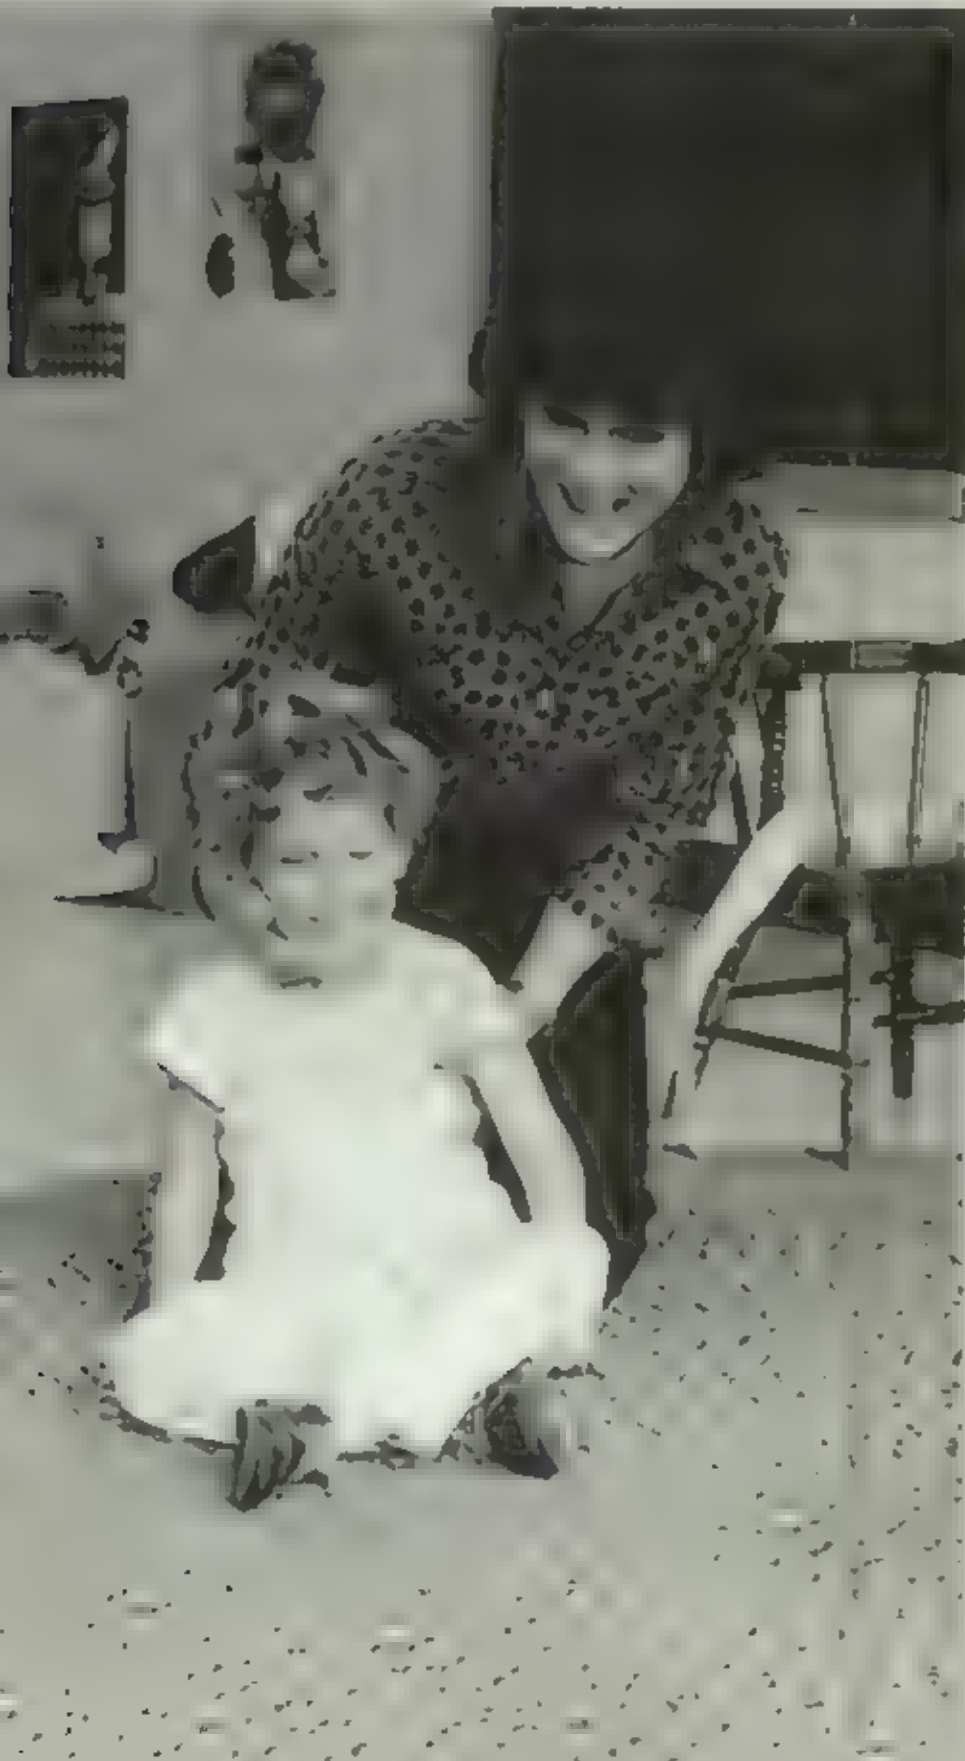

Many old and young people were made a lot happier this year by the student service classes. These classes travelled to the Fort Stephenson Senior Citizen's Center, Bethesda Care Center, the School of Hope and Sandco, bringing joy to the inhabitants. At the Fort Stephenson and Bethesda, the students visited with the old people and became good friends to them. These visits gave the older ones an opportunity to talk to someone and have someone listen to them

At Sandco and the School of Hope the service classes helped the people learn their colors, addresses, how to tie their shoes, and many other things. At the same time, the students gave them friendship and understanding

The service classes proved to be very helpful to the community — they cared, shared, and most of all, they understood. They were also very rewarding to the students who invested their time ach of the four classes at S.J.C. spent some time away from the school on a retreat. During this time they grew closer to each other and to their God.

The Senior retreat was once again held at the Bergamo Retreat center in Dayton, Ohio. The theme of the retreat was "Responsible Independence" and for three days the seniors listened, talked and reacted to responsibility. The seniors returned more united as a class and with hopes of remaining that way.

The theme of "The Me I Want To Be" highlighted the freshmen retreat in Genoa. An appearance by Hobby the Clown also helped to make the day special.

Excruciating pain and agony is written all over the face of T. J. Warren as Jeff Schmitt, Steve Jodurcak and Tim Stone carry him off the field during the Homecoming game against Port Clinton. This injury kept T. J. sidelined the remainder of the season and resulted in him having to have an operation on his knee.

This truly could have been "The Year of the Streaks" for the football team. They had everything going for them — size — the line averaged about 6'1" and 200 lbs. — speed — with Roger Darr, Ken Mosser and Rob Kerr in the backfield the Streaks had an overabundance of speed and the added dimension of Mosser's passing, and experience — there were 16 seniors returning for their last season. The Streaks had all these ingredients and yet somehow the season went sour.

Victory was in the air as the Streaks conquered Fostoria St. Wendelin 25-0 in their opening game. Roger Darr started off his spectacular season by amassing 295 yards on 30 carries. His performance prompted Coach Wonderly to say "Roger is built just like a Greek God." Tim Cullen also had a good game gaining 112 yards. The second string offense also put on a good show as Bryan Yeckey connected with Mike Weickert for a 22 yard touchdown pass. The next game against the Oak Harbor Rockets proved to be St. Joe's first downfall. The Rockets displayed a crushing ground game and survived a last ditch effort by the Streaks to gain a 30-28 upset victory. This victory was Oak Harbor's first over the Streaks since 1974 and only the 8th in the 33 meetings between the two schools. Roger Darr scored all four of St.

Joe's touchdowns that night for coming up with their best performance of the season. Rich Ibeling was also outstanding on the kick off team. Twice the 5'7", 140 lb. senior went down field and met the St. Mary's returner head on. The crack of the helmet echoed throughout the stadium.

The High Hopes For Glory Turn To Despair A Disappointing Season

last ditch effort.

The Streaks traveled to Gibsonburg for their traditional bout against the Golden Bears. Ken Mosser and Ken Swint went to work and scored both Streak touchdowns on pass plays. With the scoreboard reading 15-9 an enthusiastic Streak team celebrated their second win. This Streak victory proved to be the only loss of the season for the Golden Bears.

The first SBC clash of the year was against arch rival Sandusky St. Mary's. At stake in this game was one of the coveted golden footballs. The golden pigskin is awarded when either of the schools can put together three consecutive triumphs over the other. The Streaks shut out the Panthers 21-0 and carried off their first golden football in a long, long time. St. Joe's defensive unit

The Streaks record now stood at 5-1. Game five of the season against Sandusky Perkins was a big disappointment for the Crimson Streaks. St. Joe won the game in every statistic but not on the scoreboard. Roger Darr and company rolled up 150 yards to Perkin's 99. The Streaks ran 20 more offensive plays than the Pirates and generally outplayed the visitors, but the final score read 12-7 in favor of Perkins. Triumph number four came when St. Joe met Margaretta. With memories of last years thrashing at the hands of the Polar Bears, 19-12, burning in their minds, the Streaks avenged the loss by capturing a 35-26 SBC victory. Ken Swint and Roger Darr each scored twice and Ken Mosser passed for 154 yards as the Streaks upset their record to 9-2.

The Bitter End

St. Joe compiled another win in its Homecoming outing over newcomer to the league, Port Clinton. Roger Darr was truly a wanted man in the Redskins' lockerroom as he gained 275 yards and also helped the Streak defense to have another fine game. Coach Wonderly commented, "The offensive line did a super job against the Redskins." This win added to the great Homecoming celebration.

The last three games all proved to be downers for the Streaks. The first of these losses came at the hands of Tiffin Calvert. A steady down pour plagued both teams during the first half, but despite the rain St. Joe was ahead at half-time 8-7. In the second half the rains let up and the score remained the same until the 4th quarter. During that quarter, the Senecas scored 9 points making the final score 17-8. This loss knocked the Streaks out of the SBC race while it lifted Tiffin into the State playoffs. In the playoffs, Calvert won 3 games and ended up 1st in the state.

The next Streak defeat came when they tangled with the tough Huron Tigers. This game was another statistical win for St. Joe, but a loss nonetheless. Ken Mosser passed 50 yards to Jack Hoffman to set up the Streaks' first touchdown. Hoffman made a super one handed catch. Mosser threw to Ken Swint for the second St. Joe touchdown, but it was too late because the Tigers had too much of a lead. The final score was 21-12.

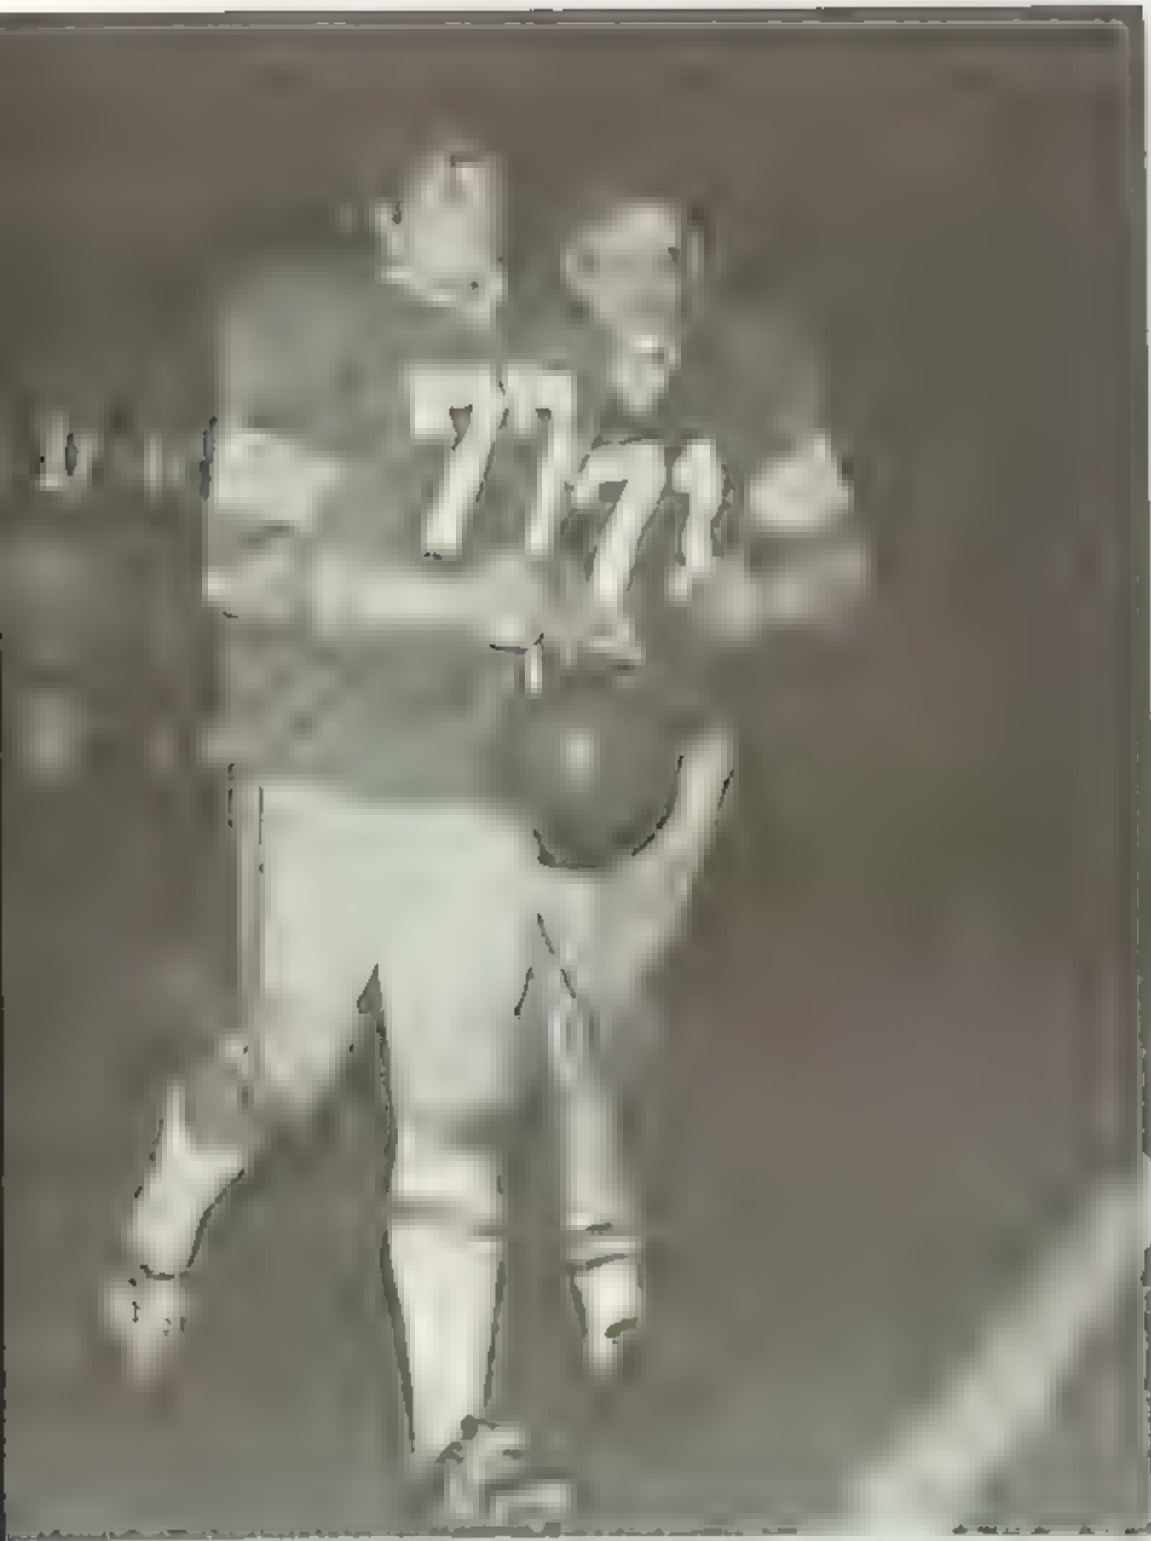

After traveling down the road to Clyde the Streaks suffered their final defeat. In the first half St. Joe played uninspired football and were behind the Fliers at half-time 13-0. The Streaks struck quickly in the second half. On their first possession Ken Mosser found Jack Hoffman all alone in the endzone and hit him with a seven yard touchdown pass. Less than two minutes later Ken Swint picked up a Flier fumble and returned it for the second St. Joe touchdown. However the defense could not stop Clyde on its next possession and the Fliers gained the final victory 19-12.

In the end, a season for which everyone had high hopes turned into a disappointing 500 season and the Streaks finished with a dismal 3-4 record in the SBC.

The sure hands of Jack Hoffman are shown as he drives for a pass against Oak Harbor. This was Hoffman's only catch of the game but it set up St. Joe's first touchdown.

"It was a definite learning situation for me." Coach Patti Hill expressed her feelings at the end of volleyball season. She had replaced Coach Jill Fick this year as the head volleyball coach. Miss Hill did not have any prior volleyball coaching experience and so she was learning right along with her players.

One of the highlights of the season was the swift victory over Huron. The Streaks' serves, sets and spikes dazzled the Huron opponents. The final score was 2-0. However, the highlights were not always so easy to be found. In fact, during some matches the girls found it hard to get into the game and the teamwork needed, just never really developed.

Of the five seniors on the team this year, four had earned letters last year. With so little experience, this year was cited as a rebuilding year. Despite their record, the team's attitude was always good and spirited throughout the year. Each player continued to work hard, learn and try their best during every practice session and every game. The season proved to be a learning experience for all but especially for the underclassmen. They logged a lot of playing time and this experience will help insure the possibility of a good season next year.

All-Time High

At first cross country was a varsity sport used by basketball players and wrestlers, who did not play football, to get in shape. Running, however, has become one of the fastest growing sports in the nation and here at St. Joseph the cross country team has been caught up in this trend. The Streaks celebrated their eighth anniversary with their first undefeated season, 19-0.

Coach Gary Logsdon said, "It was an outstanding year, with the team's attitude at an all-time high. The runners, especially the varsity, put in a 100% effort at each and every meet." During the early practices, everyone ran between four and ten miles in preparation for the days when they would be striding past their winded opponents. Once the season began, the runners ran even harder at the practices and many held their own unscheduled practices in which they would burn up the side-walks all around Fremont.

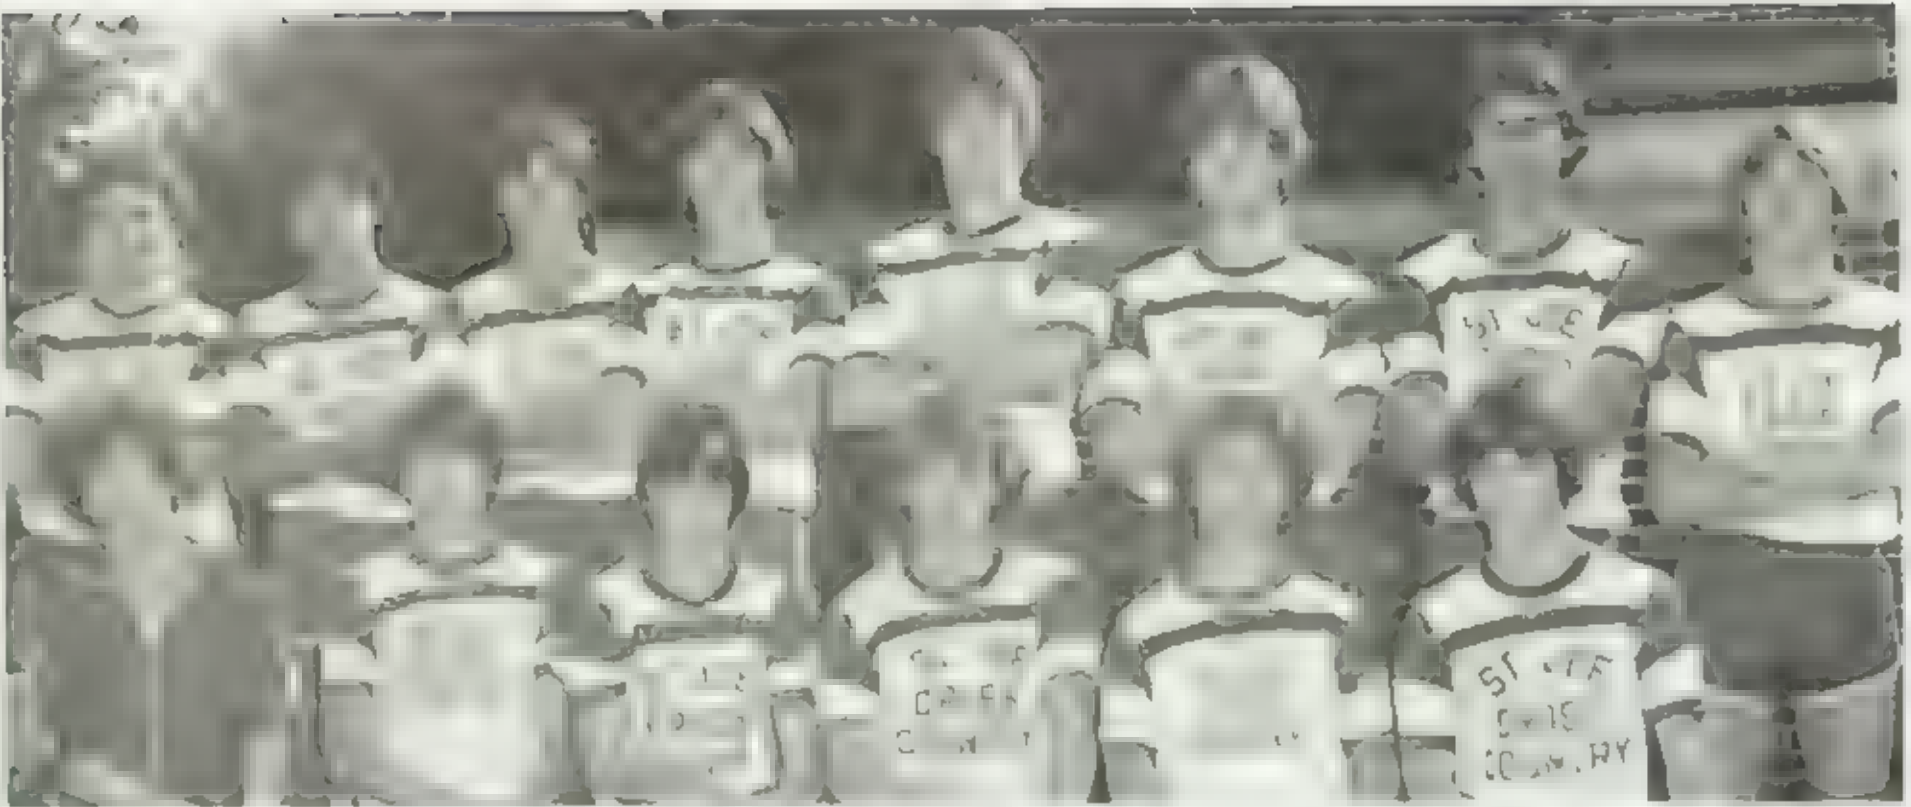

All of the top runners were close in times, but the number one runner of the season was Tom Wilhelm. Even with a super 19-0 season, two things eluded the Streak harriers: the SBC title and qualifying for the state meet. In the SBC race Tom Wilhelm had to drop out due to an injury suffered in the last meet of the season. Dick Ransom ran his best race of the season and finished third overall. The team also finished third.

After having his best season, Coach Logsdon decided to resign as head coach. He has left next year's coach a promising future because, of the top runners of this year, almost everyone was an underclassmen.

First Time Ever

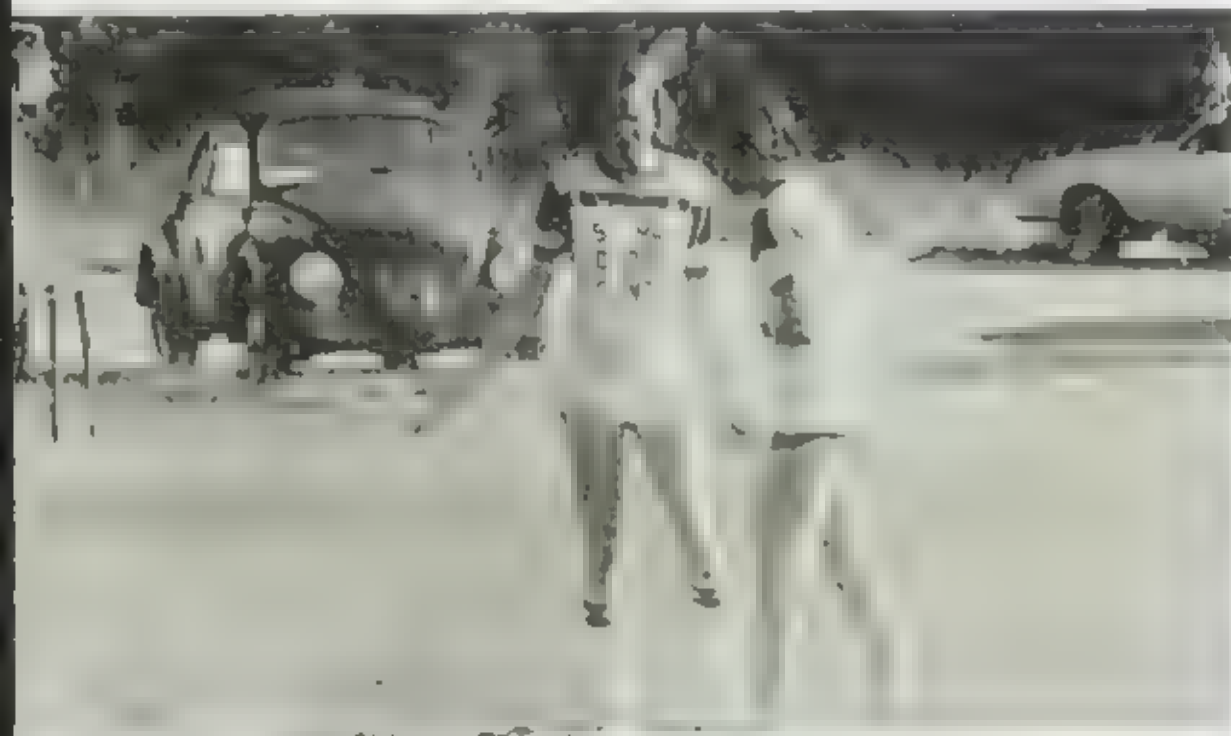

There was a new addition to varsity sports at St. Joe this year. The girls cross country team had their first season. Coach Logsdon called their first year a "learning experience" as the runners experienced the feel of the track beneath their Nikes. The girls cross country team didn't exactly have a great season, but they gained knowledge in how meets are conducted and the right methods of training. Their best meet was against Huron, when they brilliantly burned up the turf and left Huron to choke on the smoke. All in all, the girls learned the ways of cross country meets and are ready to make their next season a winner.

Blighted Hope

"Although the golf team and myself were disappointed with the record — the experiences that they gained this season will make us a team to contend with in the S.B.C. next year," reported Coach John Moor, of the HJCC golf team. The two highlights of this past season were the victories over Huron and Sandusky St. Mary's. Huron was considered by the coaches to be the favorite team for the S.B.C., and St. Mary's was undefeated until St. Joe clubbed them.

Of all the players, Coach Moor considered Jeff Decker the one who played with the most consistency. The team started out with three lettermen, and by the end of the season three more letters had been won.

All in all, the streak golfers had a learning season that will surely come to great use next year.

SEASON RECORD 5-14 overall, 2-14 SBC

For the first time ever the St. Joe's boys varsity basketball team participated in the Northwest Ohio Holiday Prep Classic at the University of Toledo's Centennial Hall. The Streaks were in the "A" division which also included St. Wendelin, New Reigel and North Central.

On December 20, the team left for Toledo to attend a pre-game banquet and to see a Toledo University basketball game. After seeing the Rockets lose for the first time, the Streaks went back to their Sheraton Westgate motel to get some sleep before the next day's big game.

The St. Joe team traveled to Centennial Hall early Sunday morning on the 21st, to see the North Central and New Reigel game. After watching a strong New Reigel team hold off North Central, the Streaks seemed very ready for their encounter with St. Wendelin. The team wasn't as ready as they thought half. The Streaks went into the locker room with a slim 36-35 lead. The second half belonged all to St. Joe as Ken Swint and Dave Foos hit the boards while Mike Reardon and Brian Burns were popping their shots in from the outside. As the fans cheered, the team however, as they looked sluggish and fell behind 30-25 at halftime. Thanks to a pressuring full court press, St. Joe pulled themselves back into the game and won it 57-52. The win put the varsity into the finals against the always tough New Reigel team.

At 4:00 p.m. on December 27, the Streaks took the court to battle New Reigel, in front of practically the whole town of Fremont and also a blaring St. Joe Pep Band. The game was everything it was made up to be as both teams battled almost evenly throughout the first half. The Streaks went into the locker room with a slim 36-35 lead. The second half belonged all to St. Joe as Ken Swint and Dave Foos hit the boards while Mike Reardon and Brian Burns were popping their shots in from the outside. As the fans cheered, the team counted down the final seconds and when the buzzer sounded, St. Joe had a 69-60 victory, and also one happy coach Denny Faber. Every player on the team received individual medals for their accomplishments. Mike Reardon and Ken Swint each were named to the all-tournament team and received individual trophies. The best moment of all however, was when the six senior members accepted the huge team trophy to a standing ovation from the Fremont fans. The Streaks were off to their best start in years with a perfect 6-0 record.

Faber's Troops Enjoy Success

Centennial Hall was just one of the many highlights the St. Joe boy's basketball team had this year. Coach Faber's squad had the best record since 1972 for a Streak team. A few games stand out more than others during the season.

A sell-out was on hand in Fremont to witness the first S B C tilt between the Streaks and the Panthers of Sandusky St. Mary's. Senior playmaking guard Mike Reardon put on a clinic of twisting, turning jump shots on the way to a career high 33 points as St. Joe shocked the defending Class A State Champions 67-63.

The Clyde Fliers brought a lowly record into the St. Joe gym but gave the Streaks all they could handle. Thanks to a super strong inside game by 6'5" center Ken Swint, who scorched the nets for 38 points, the St. Joe team escaped with a narrow 62-56 victory.

St. Mary's hadn't been beaten in "the Den" since Coach Faber's squad did it two years ago. The Streaks played perhaps their strongest game of the season as they beat the Panthers for the second time this season. Ken Swint, Mike Reardon and Brian Burns supplied the offensive punch while Jeff Decker, Jack Hoffman and Tom Halm played superb defense as St. Joe whipped the Panthers 77-67.

It was a fine year for St. Joe basketball. The Streaks finished with a very respectable 15-5 overall record and a 10-4 record in the S B C. The team also was seeded first in the sectionals and hoped to go very far in the tournaments.

Upper Weights Lead Strongmen Through Winning Season

This year's Sandusky Bay Conference Wrestling Tournament was hosted by St. Joe. With newcomer Port Clinton there were eight teams in the field. At the end of the tournament the Streak wrestlers found themselves in a familiar position: second place. St. Mary's Central Catholic won the S.B.C. crown defending their championship. Throughout the season St. Joe was led by the upper weight wrestlers. David A. Foos was undefeated for the Streaks at heavyweight. Doug Courtney, at 185 pounds, lost only 3 matches while Mark Coleman, Tim Cullen and Roger Darr all had winning records to lead the Streaks to a 10-4-1 overall record. The Streaks finished second in four tournaments during the regular season.

"All in all the girls did very well this year. Their record was much better, 10-10 and the players seemed to have more spirit." Coach Rich Hotz expressed his feelings about the girls basketball team on the evening of their last regular season game. This year's lady Streaks were lead by a trio of fine seniors: Sherri Widman, Laurie Bodnar and Mary Binsack.

The rest of the team was made up of one junior and four sophomores. The girls played against some stiff competition including two games against Huron lead by All-Ohio Kris Watt and one against Danbury Lakeside lead by All-Ohio Chris Pryor.

The biggest highlight of the season was

Experience Gained By Younger Girls

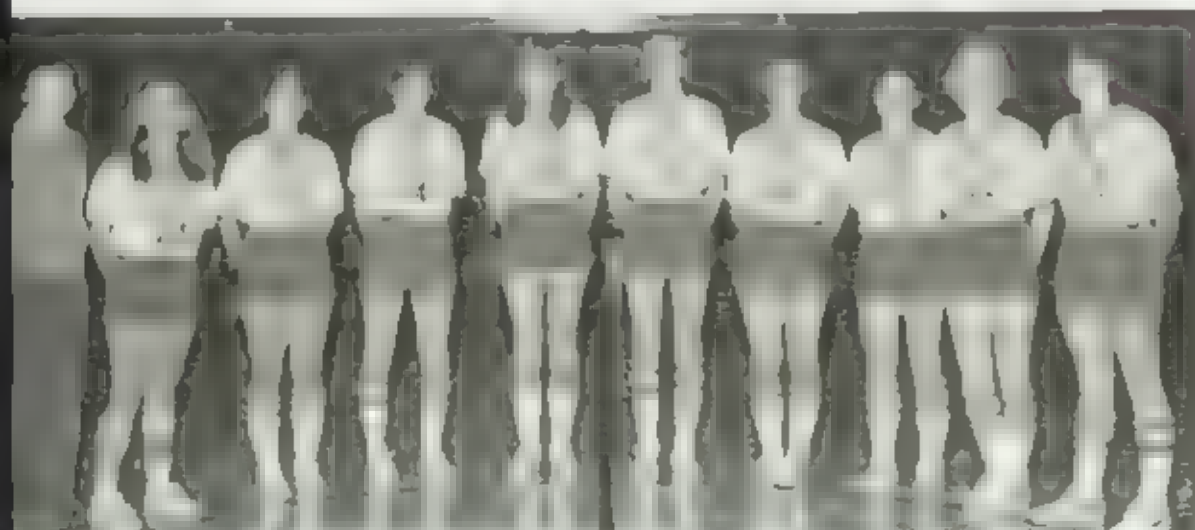

The junior varsity team, coached by Patti Hill, was made up of all sophomores with the exception of one freshman. Their record wasn't as good as the varsity, but what they lacked in scoring they made up for in spirit. They also gained much in the way of experience for the coming year.

For the second year there was a freshmen girls team. Coached by John Moor, the girls didn't have as great a season as they may have hoped but it was the first time that many of them had played. This learning experience should help these girls in the coming years.

With her eye on the basket, Reanna Hill rose up in the air to shoot the ball. It is a real "Streak" in scoring this year.

Coach Rich Hotz tells his team some important strategies in 10-15 minute moments of a game with Port Clinton.

Members of the reserve basketball team are: Coach Patti Hill, Mary Hagerty, Michelle Schwartz, Lisa Luc, Jeanne Reardon, Michelle Wagner, Annette Rachs, Wendy Bommarito, Mary Hammer and Lynne Auxter.

The work that goes into building a typical NJCC Homecoming float includes the work and preparation that would go into training Tim Fox, a member of the NJCC Homecoming float, to the top of the float to make sure the float is secure and ready for the float.

Juniors & Sports They Go Together

The juniors were always found in the sports action at S.J.C.C., whether competing, cheering or just plain watching. Many junior girls participated in volleyball, reserve and varsity, and received their letters accordingly. The girls from the cheerleading squad also cheered the teams on to their wins. Junior guys were also very active in basketball and football, always helping the teams to a victory. Juniors also showed up on the golf team and wrestling squad which added to the special flair they gave to our school.

Juniors Ignite Spirit

At the junior float, the movie "Caddyshack" seemed more prominent than the Homecoming theme of the "Muppets". Many juniors took time out from the back-breaking process of constructing a float to get some exercise via their Rodney Dangerfield imitation. Then finally, as the Homecoming week drew to a climax at the Friday afternoon pep rally, the cheerleaders created a skit that fit the situation perfectly. Mary Hart portrayed a Port Clinton football player as she rode around the gym on a tricycle and was knocked off just like Port Clinton was the following night. As a whole, the junior class showed that Homecoming was of high importance by making their presence known at both the pep rally and the game on Saturday evening.

Juniors Serve Up POPCORN

The smell of hot dogs, popcorn and other concession goodies drew hundreds of starving football and basketball fans to the stands this past year. These stands were manned by members of the junior class, who served steaming cups of coffee and hot chocolate to thousands of outreached hands. Although it was a tedious job, through it, the juniors earned a great deal of money to fund their senior class trip.

Sophomores Finally Earn A Respectful Position

Sophomores do have spirit! With all their cheering, clapping and yelling, how could anyone say that they didn't have energy? Their stamina was boosted by a year of experience as freshmen, and they came on strong during pep rallies and sports events, but their spirit didn't stop there. The sophomore guys were active in varsity and reserve sports, such as football, wrestling, and baseball. The girls, not to be outdone by their classmates, participated in such sports as cross country and basketball. Many sophomores also played and marched with the band, which was another way they showed their pride in their school.

Sophs Do their Thing In Many Different Sports

A big part of sophomore life for some was leaving behind the freshmen teams and moving up to junior varsity. Composed mostly of sophomores, the J.V. level was another step up the ladder to a coveted varsity spot. These teams offered practice, experience and further development of skills to prepare them for the day that they would finally become varsity players. Just about every varsity spot had a J.V. team behind them to insure excellent seasons in the future.

Movin' On Up

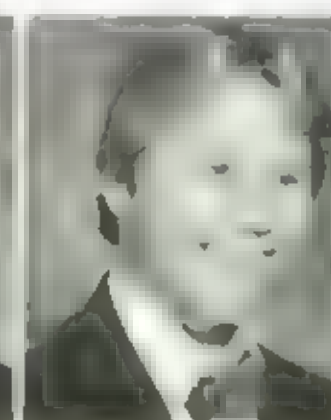

Having already spent an entire year at S.J.C.C., the sophomores were old pros at handling their schedules. Their promotion from the first floor to the third made their enthusiasm hit new heights as they bravely faced such classes as Biology, Geometry and World History. Though their classes were somewhat harder than the year before, the sophomores didn't allow themselves to get into a rut. They still made time for extracurricular activities such as sports, decorating the halls for Homecoming as well as building a float

They were new and inexperienced but these freshmen were determined not to let that one misfortune stand in their way. The courses and ways of the teachers were new and unfamiliar to them but they soon became accustomed to them. These freshmen were willing to learn and learn they did by using all their talents. Freshmen Ditch Shyness And Show Enthusiasium.

Freshmen weren't timid little people this past year. They all participated in their class elections (speeches and all!). The freshmen were also very active at pep rallies, during which they contributed their share of skits, pyramids and spirit! They wouldn't let their position of youngest in the school keep their voices down. Maybe they were still the last in the lunchline, but they weren't last in enthusiasm. Freshmen Learn The Basic Rules Of The Game

As the freshmen boys and girls went out for the sports they had always loved to play, it was their first chance to learn and gain experience for the years still to come. They had graduated from the ranks of grade school sports and entered into a new world of organized fun. Only a few freshmen were promoted to the varsity level while all of the rest competed on junior varsity and freshmen levels. Every person that went out played as hard as they could and with a lot of enthusiasm to help their team to the best season possible. Not only did they acquire new skills but learned to work as a team, a unit that won together and suffered defeat together. Someday these athletes will be St. Joseph's varsity stars

Freshmen Hurdle First Obstacles

Other than struggling through geography class (and their many other mind-boggling courses) the freshmen had various other obstacles to conquer. Some tried to tackle the new roller-skating rink, which was obviously a big struggle for some. For others, just walking down the hall, facing all the new, older faces was a major struggle in their lives. This was made even harder with the added luggage of a broken leg as some freshmen found out. But, despite their problems, the freshmen came through their first year with flying colors. They were all fired up, and ready for the hardships of being sophomores. After all, they had already been through everything — hadn't they?

[Working Together To Accomplish Success]

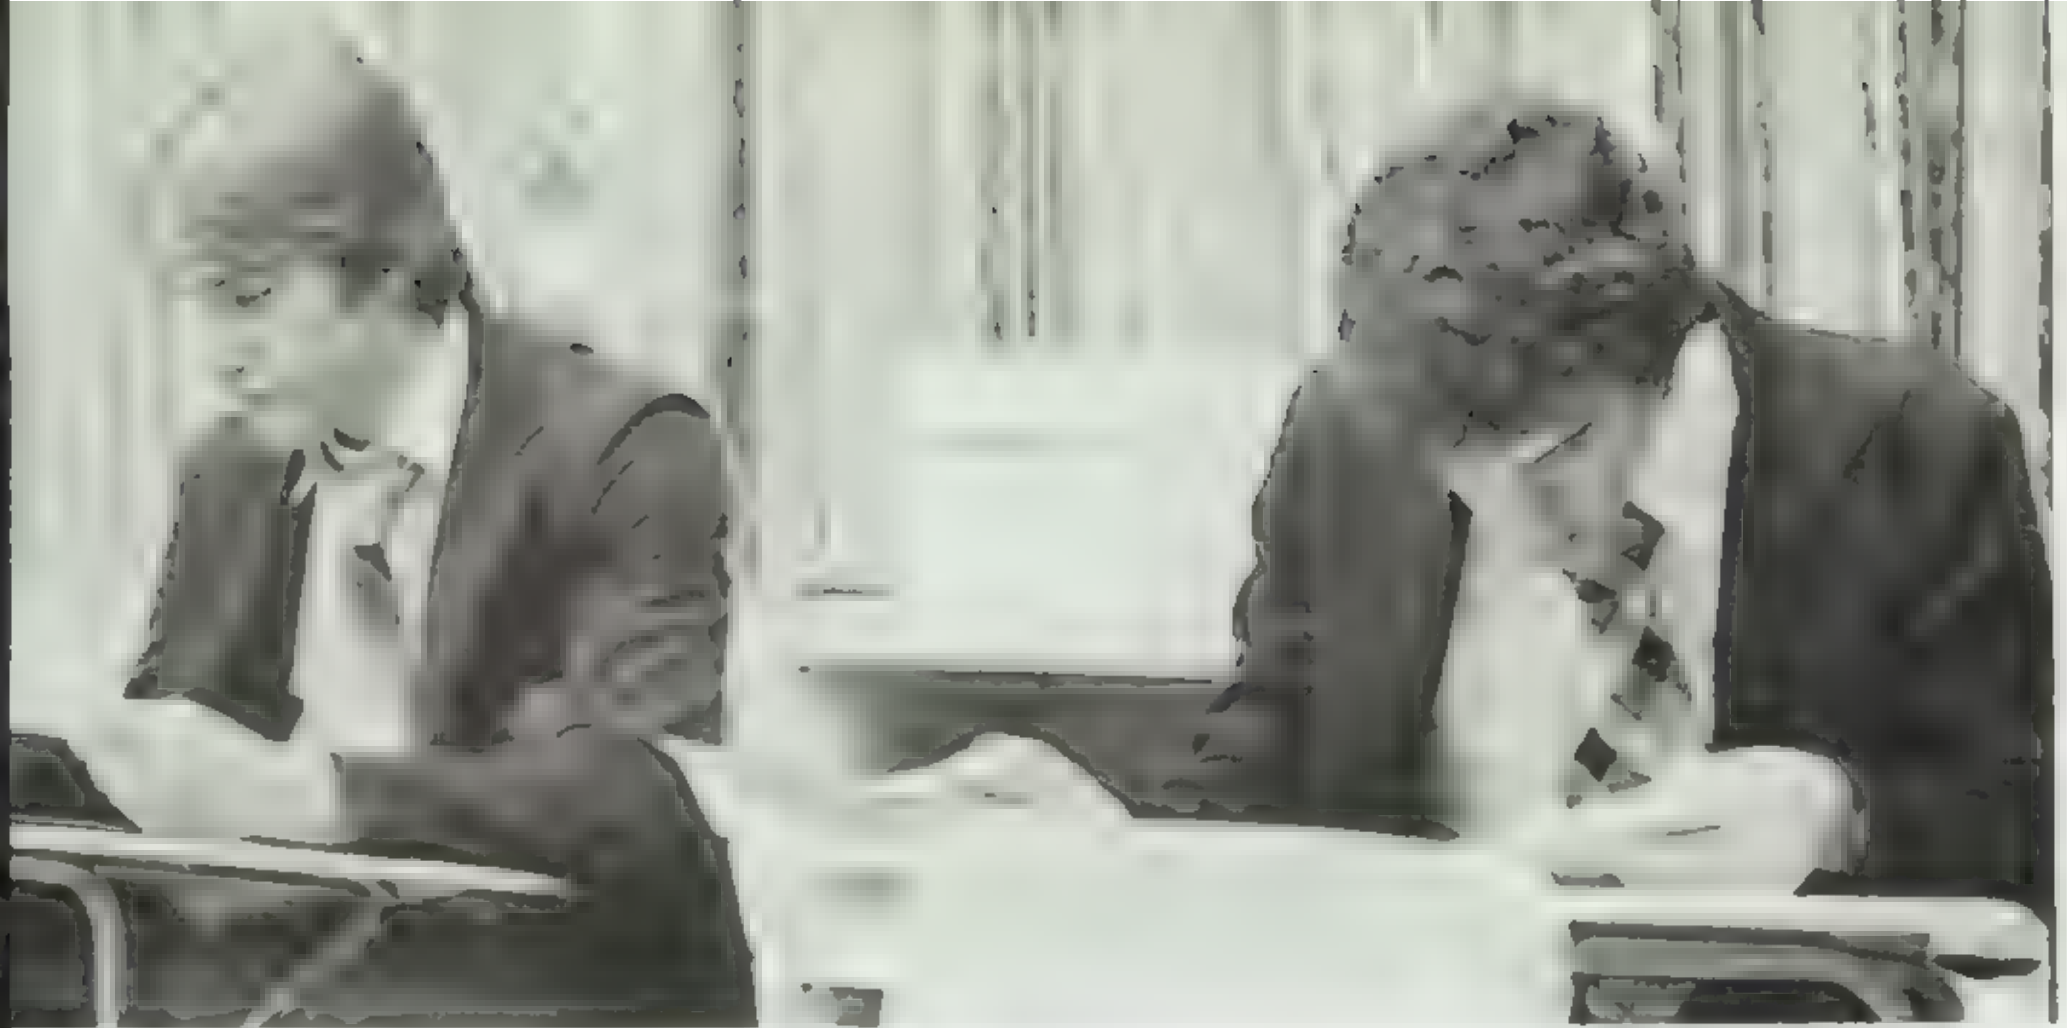

Deadlines, layouts and overall hard work — that's what it takes to make a great yearbook, and the Josemont II of 1981 had all of this, and much, much more. Throughout the year the different section heads, photographers, copy writers, editors and others worked diligently at their specialties until finally, the last deadline was met. It took a lot of cooperation, determination and imagination but the yearbook staff had an abundance of these qualities and used them to produce a terrific end product. Laura Foos, Deb Dye, Kathy Daubel, Ed Steinbauer and Tim Barbour attended a yearbook and journalism seminar at Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan while Mike Reardon and Dan Leite went to one at Kent State, the previous summer. This experience provided a better outlook on the making of a yearbook, and made them better in their respective departments. The yearbook staff consisted of Laura Foos, Kathy Daubel and Deb Dye (editors), Mary Ellen Masnado and Chris Troxell (copy writers), Tami Ochs (Student Life), Jack Hoffman (Organizations), Mike Reardon (Sports), Sherrie Mayle (Seniors), Tim Barbour (Underclass), Dan Leite (Faculty), Sarah Hawk (Studies), Renee Eberly and Ed Steinbauer (photographers) and Lynne Auxter and Julie Porczak (typists). Mr. Gary Geller was their advisor.

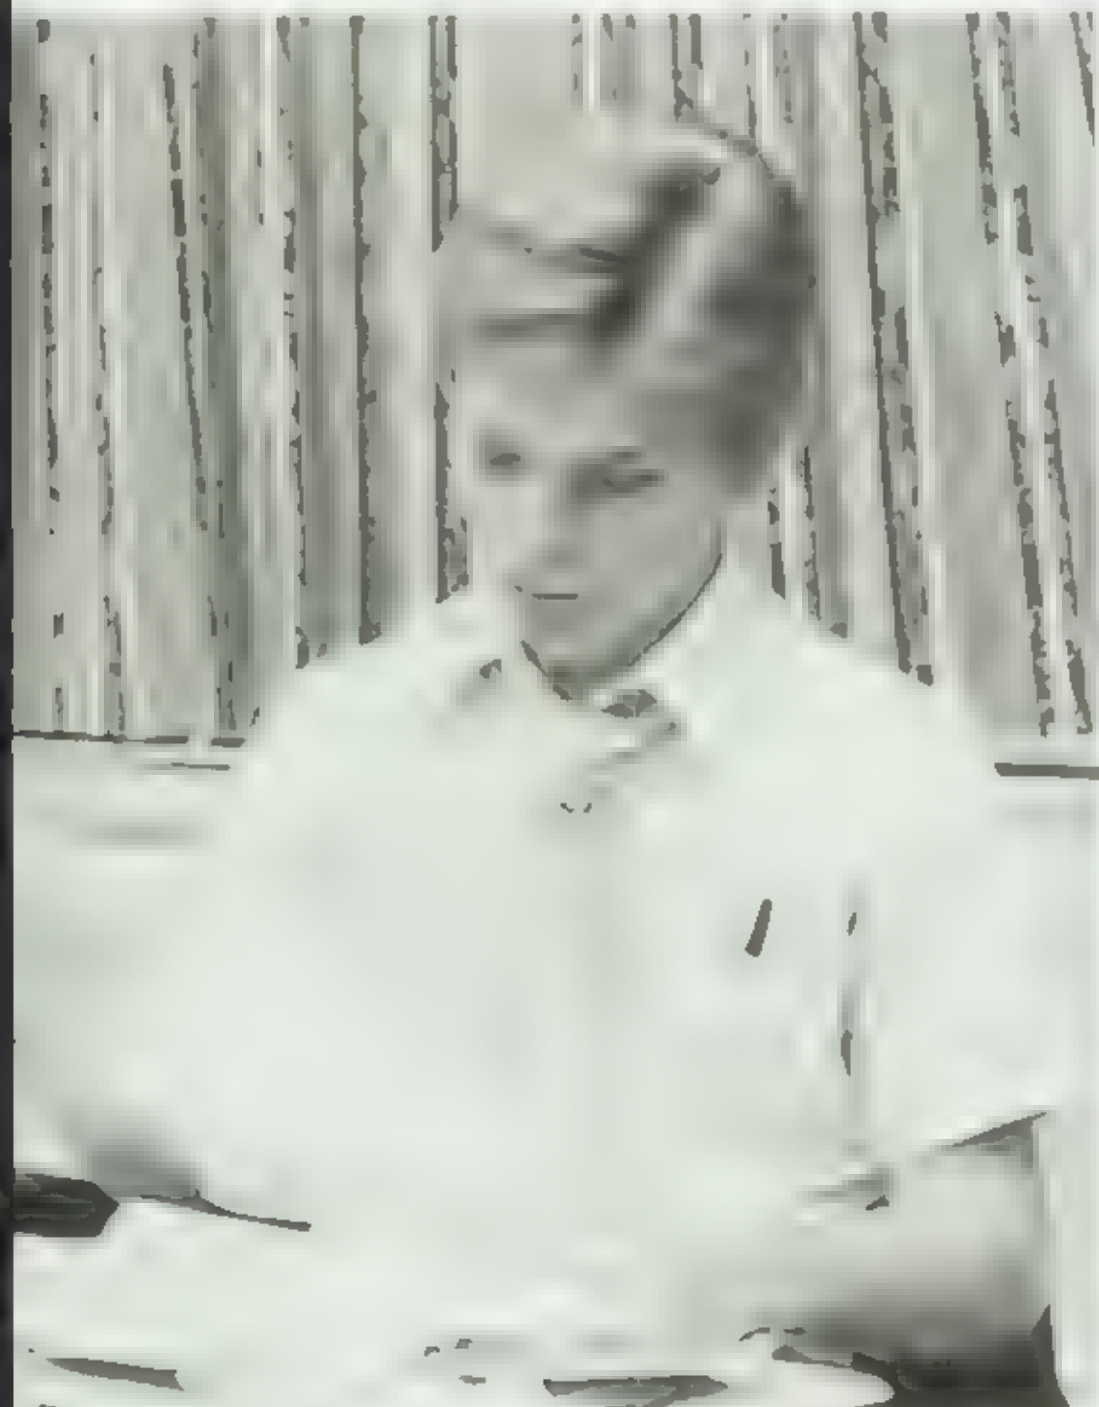

Behind these artistically designed cabinet doors, is found the work and determination of the whole yearbook staff.

Second Row: Sarah Hawk, Ed Steinbauer, Jack Hoffman, Tim Barbour, Kathy Daubel, Mike Reardon, Laura Foos, Jack Hoffman. (Missing: Julie Porczak)

With the first final meeting near, Jack Hoffman looks back at his work to make sure there are no mistakes while Mike Reardon selects more pictures for his final layout.

Although an introduction staff member, Dan Lee is certain that he will be taking on more responsibilities.

After the copy writers complete their work, Mr. Gary Celler must approve it before it goes to the typist.

The Real Search

Some students at St. Joe had a choice to make at the end of their sophomore year whether to continue their studies at St. Joe or go to Vanguard. Vanguard classes were geared for the students who didn't plan to continue their formal education beyond high school.

As seniors, many students took a part-time job related to their career classes. These jobs helped them to learn by experience and perfect their skills. When spring came, the Vanguard students took their rightful seats beside their St. Joe classmates at graduation. They had learned a trade and were confident and ready to enter the working world.

[Art Students Create True Masterpieces]

They drew, they painted, they sketched, they molded, they shaped, they carved. . . now wait a minute. . . Who did??? The SJCC art classes, of course! Sr. Boniface led the ranks of the fledgling art students. She kept them in line, and helped them develop their skills to their utmost capacities. Many of the students didn't start out as budding artists, but by the end of the class, be it crafts, Art I, II, III, or IV, most of them had very highly polished skills. On the other hand, there were some who were very talented, even when they started out, and won many awards for their artwork.

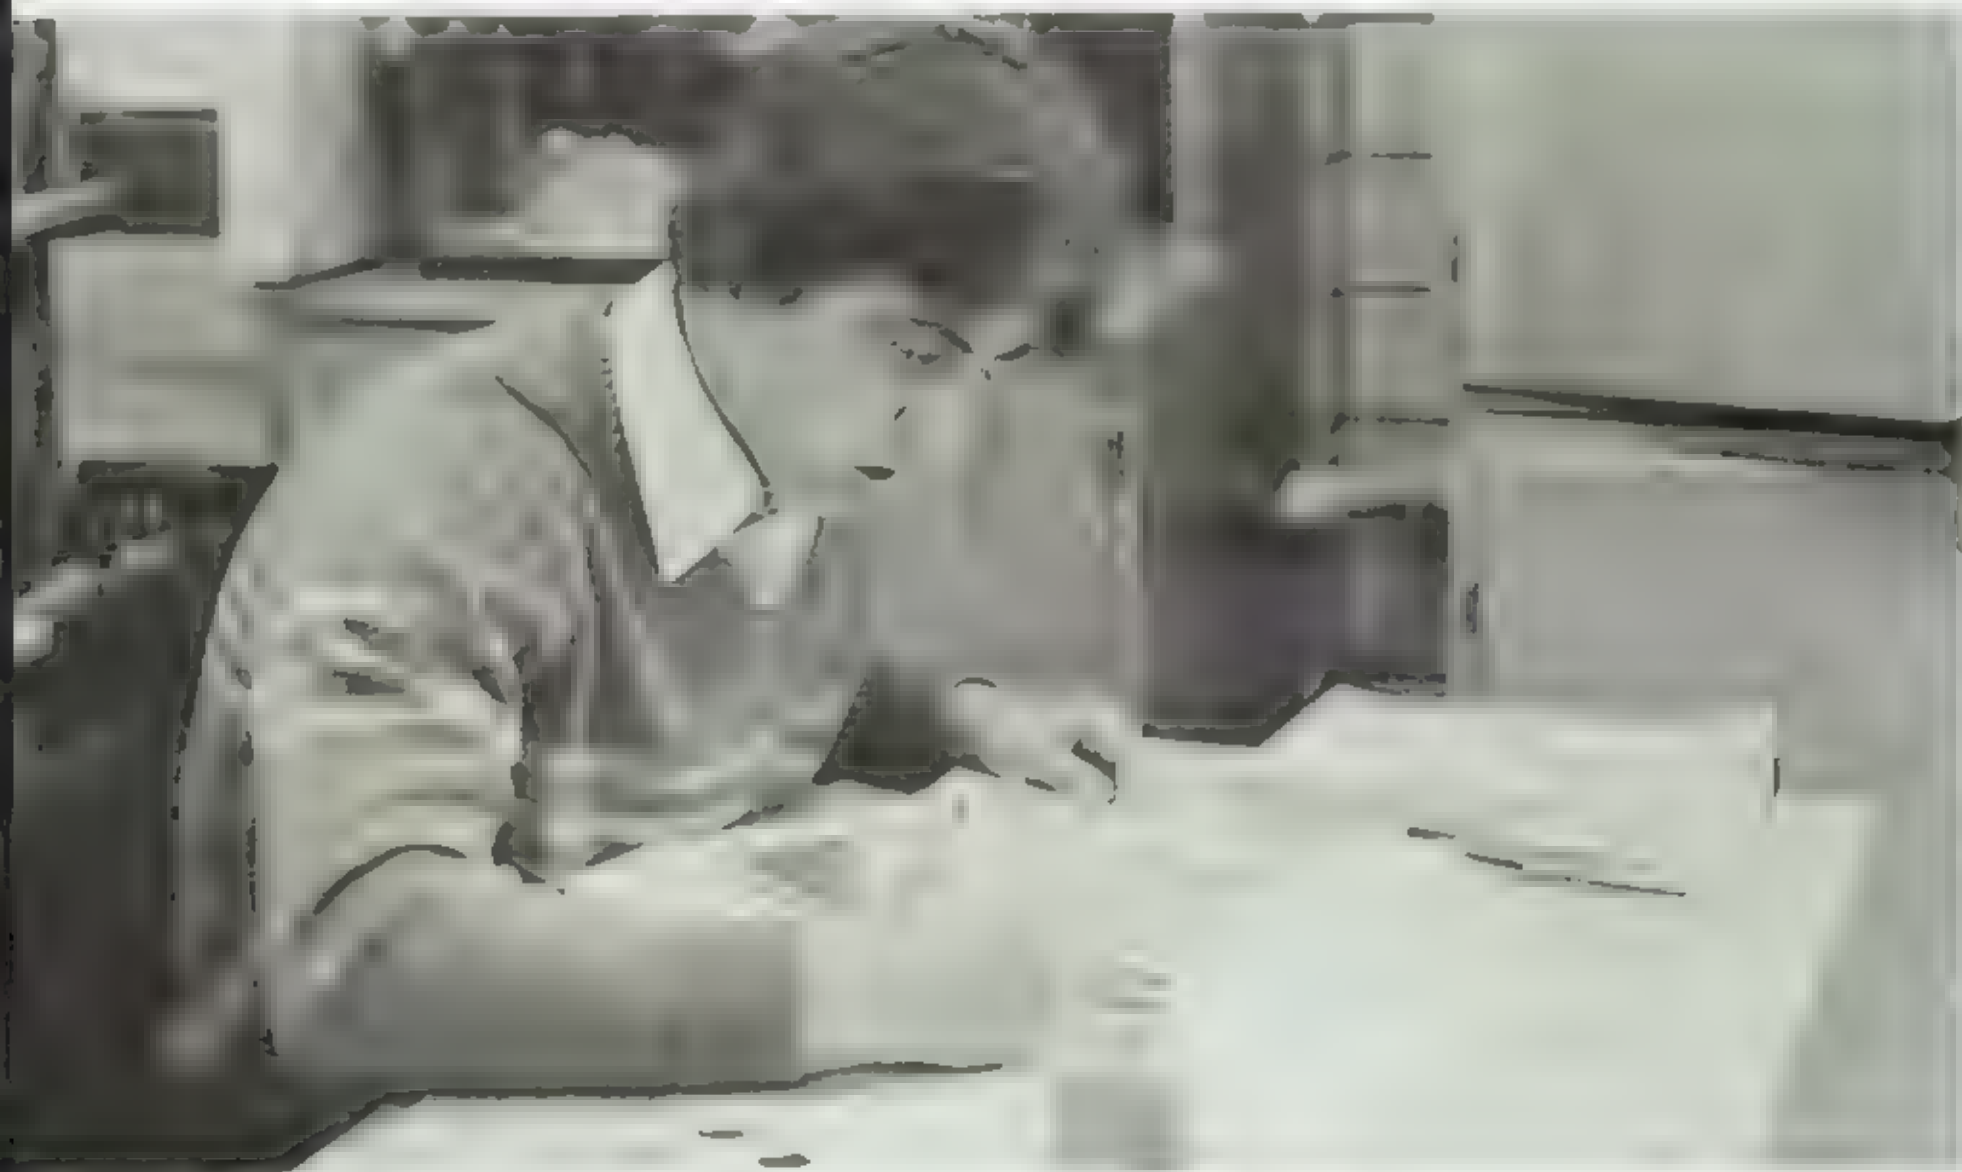

Working with clay, Sr. Boniface creates these pottery items which are sold at the school's art fair.

After many preliminary tracings and numerous trial layouts, Judy Sar puts the final touches on the stained glass window she designed for her next project in Art III.

During Art II Steve was chosen to be a member of the art team. STEVE is a friend of Steve's who has become a hard core fan of the art team.

During Art II Mike was chosen to be a member of the art team. Mike is a friend of Steve's who has become a hard core fan of the art team. Mike is a friend of Steve's who has become a hard core fan of the art team.

The Inventors Of Tomorrow

The hiss of a Bunson burner...the clinking of test tubes...the smell of formaldehyde...From these clues, one could draw but a simple conclusion; the future scientists of the world were getting started in the science department of SJCC.

The freshmen struggled through physical science while the sophomores entered biology, the science of life. The juniors engaged in a new dimension, the world of chemistry. The seniors explored physiology, the makeup of man, while the more courageous discovered the agony of physics.

It was from these humble beginnings that the super scientists of tomorrow began their journey into the challenging world.

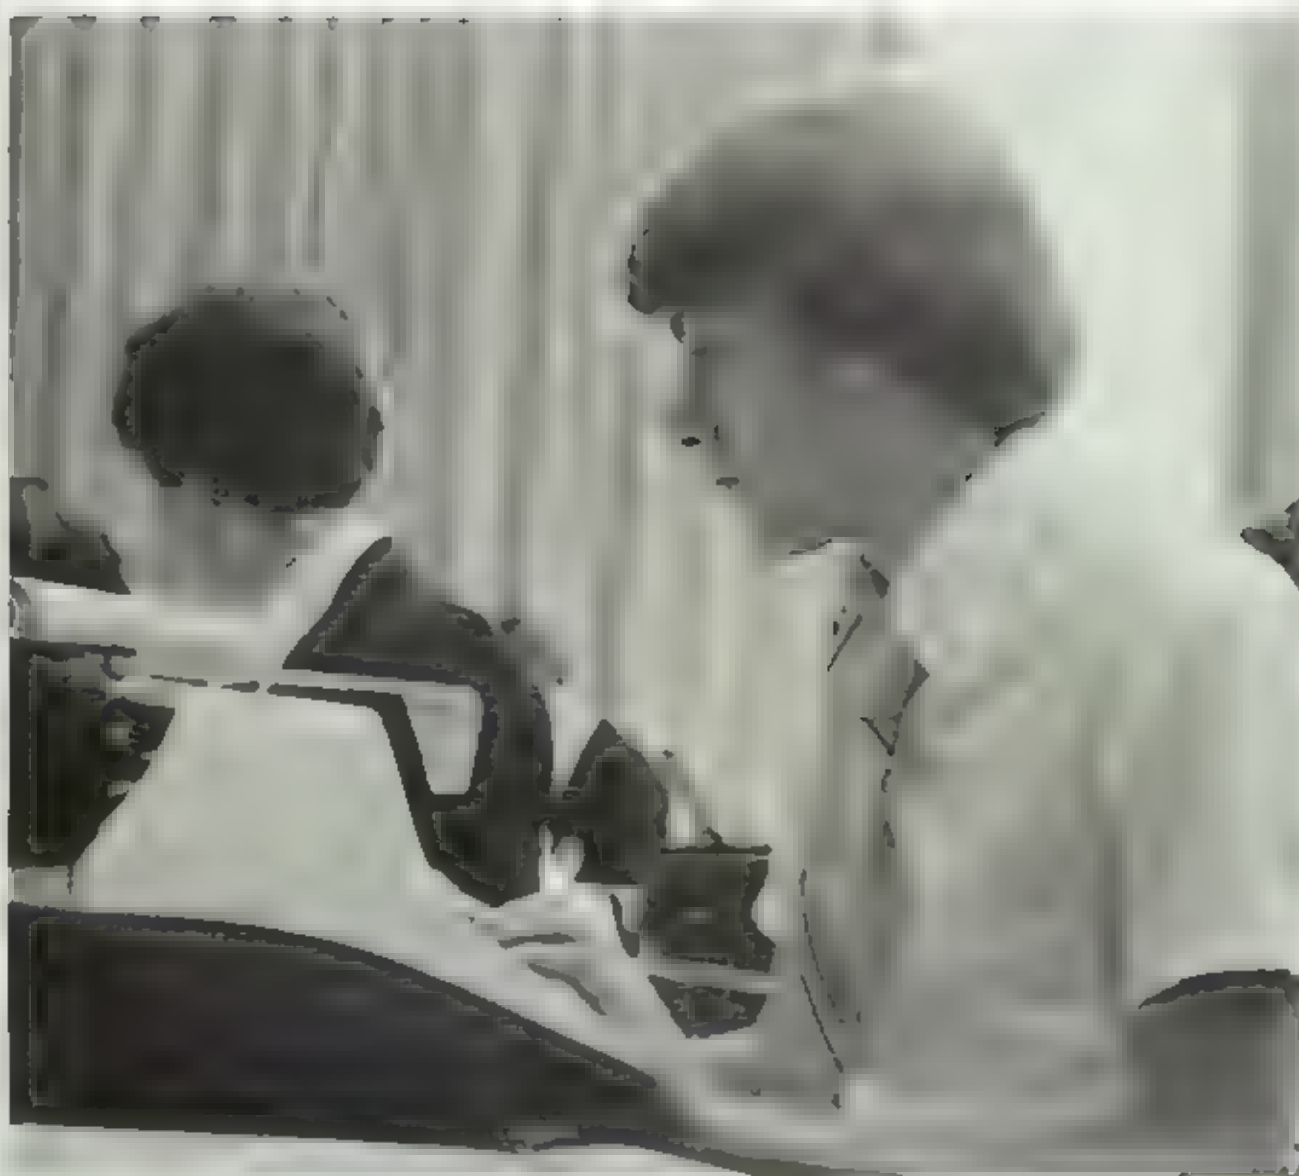

In biology, Virginia Ruiz and Jeff Chudzenicki discover the wonders of microscopic life through the use of their electric microscope.

Physiology gives Joe Gottron, Tom Stoltz, Jeff Decker, Brian Burns and Tim Cullen the opportunity to dissect and explore the body of a cat.

While experimenting in chemistry, Andy Miller and Denny Courtney find out just how important precise measurement is to obtaining the correct results.

In his first year of typing, Rob Young finds it challenging to progress and improve his skills without looking at the key board

Turning Typists Into Tycoons

With the pounding of the typewriter keys or the quiet scribbling of shorthand, the future secretaries and business executives could always be found in the business classes

From personal typing to data processing, the students applied their talents and developed their skills to the best of their abilities

Some business courses were not only for the business-career minded, but also for the college-bound students. Knowing how to write shorthand and how to type would come in handy for those who would continue their education

These girls find that the speed and accuracy required to successfully complete Typing II takes a lot more concentration than those required the year before. For those who work hard though this skill will last a lifetime

The Time Machine

What goes on and on, always changing and sometimes repeating itself? History, of course, and what better place to learn about it than the hallowed halls (and classrooms) of St. Joe

American history, taught by Mr. Bill Smith, enlightened the juniors on the past of the United States. For those who preferred something a little closer to home, there was Ohio history with Sr. Mary Victor. The seniors took civics, and with the help of Ms. Patty Hill, learned how the American political system works. This year, the history of Nazi Germany was made available, courtesy of Mr. Bill Smith

If the students liked to dig, they probably signed up for Mr. Smith's archeology class and dug up treasures of the past (such as rusty nails, pottery, and bones). And finally, for the students who wanted to know everything, there was Sr. Victor's class in world history

By studying the people and events of past cultures, the students became more aware of the ever-changing world around them

With his imagination reacting to each and every word of Mr. William Smith's lecture, Matt Freel tries to picture how the United States could have looked in the early 1800s.

By demonstration, he is to use one of the antique guns. Mr. William Smith attempts to bring the American revolution to life for his junior American History student.

An Endurance Race Towards Growth

What class teaches mental strength, coordination, teamwork, and is next to impossible to flunk? (Hint: look at the headline) Right! It's Physical Education, the class that strengthens the mind as well as the body. Physical Education students worked together while they learned the rules and strategies of such sports as volleyball, basketball, hockey, baseball, soccer, and many more. Physical Education taught more than how to play the games though, it also taught mind-body coordination, endurance, strategy, and how to dive out of the way before a basketball bounced off their head.

The freshmen and sophomores learned the basics while the juniors and seniors in advanced Physical Education got a deeper view of sports rules and strategies. Teamwork was stressed, so the victories (and now and then, defeats) were shared by all.

As the sophomores learn the basics of soccer, they also develop a new attitude toward teamwork and a desire for winning.

In advanced physical education class, Ken Suant and Joe Cottrell develop their boxing techniques, as they wait for class to begin.

In the freshmen physical education, Mary Hammer enjoys learning new exercises, as warm-ups to the main event.

Marvelous Melodies

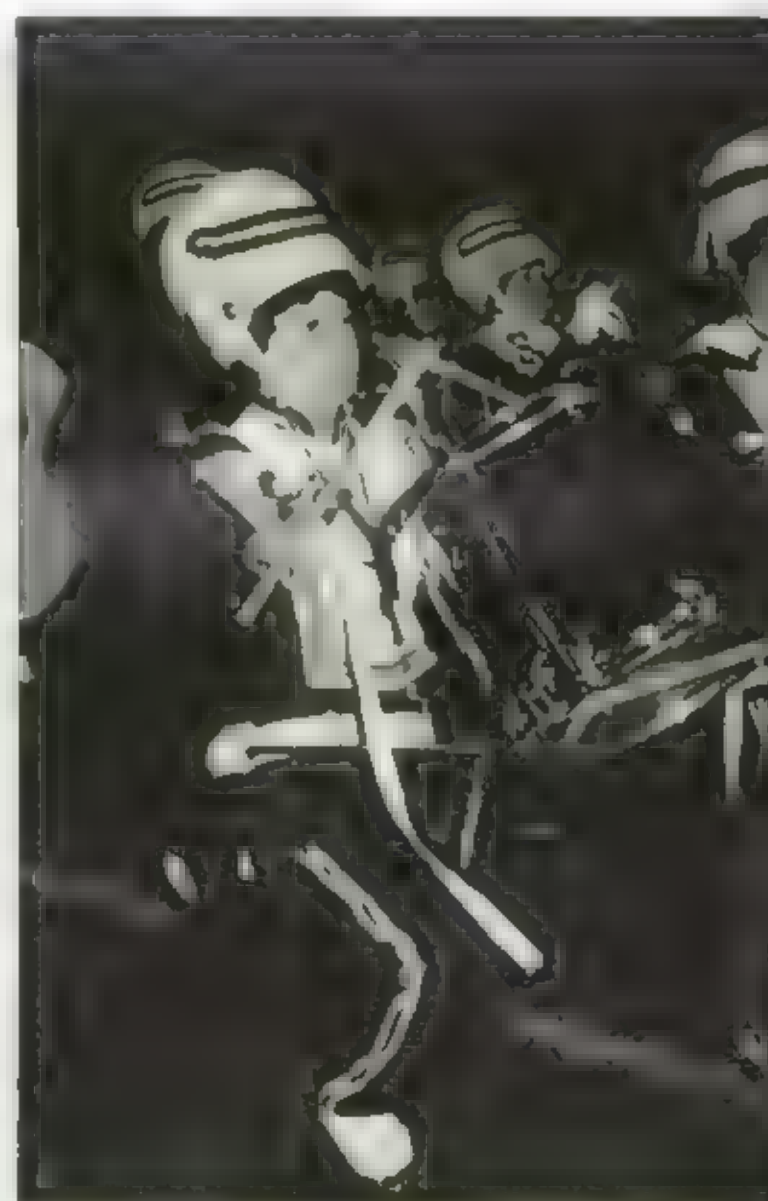

The boom of drums and the clash of symbols echoed throughout SJCC, letting everyone know that the Streak band was there! This year the band was the biggest it had been for about three years. It took a lot of time, practice and patience to bring about the terrific harmony, but they did it.

The concentration of Patti Berkett and Lisa Wentz is extremely intense as they try to achieve perfection during their last home half-time performance.

At the half-time performance of the Homecoming game, Paula Spindler proudly displays her talent on the drum.

The majorettes Brenda Bodmer, Linda VanDerLaar and Betty VanDerLaar perform an excellent performance with the help of their partner, the band.

They always kept the pep rallies going strong with the school's alma mater and the fight song while the majorettes and their routines also provided spirit and entertainment. The half-times and intermissions were brightened up, whether we were winning or losing, by the songs and dance of the band. Special attractions of the band featured a Christmas Concert, a late Winter Concert (in March) and a Spring Pops Concert. They also played at graduation and left musical memories in the minds of each graduate. The Band was always behind the teams, giving them hope, strength and most of all, a fighting spirit!

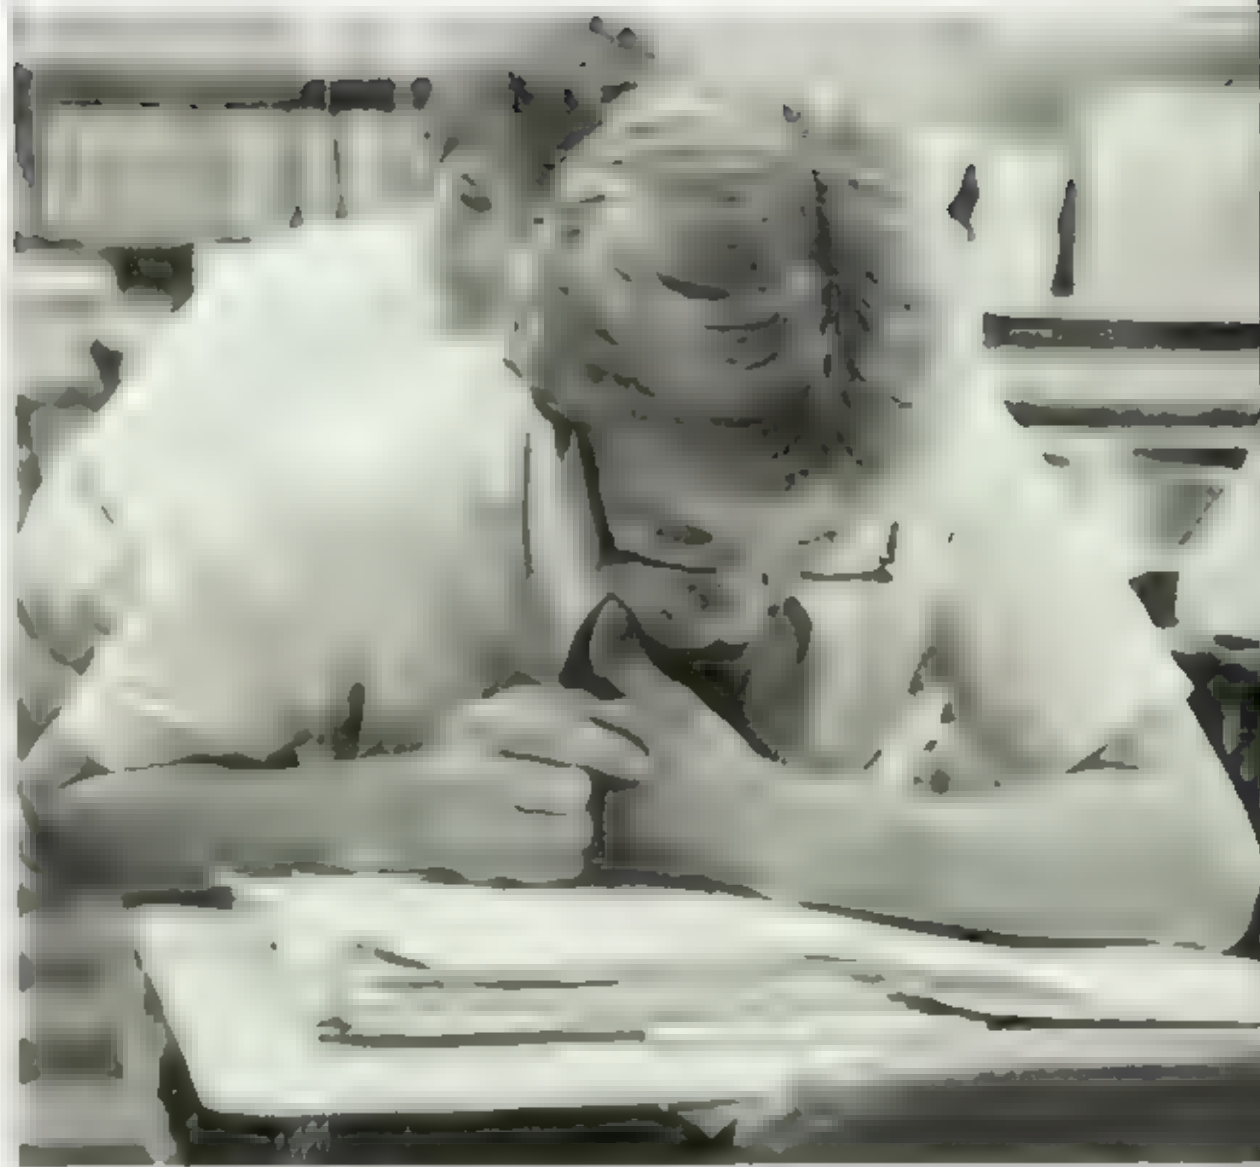

Although the band stopped marching, Betty VanDerLaar and her trumpet to ring on.

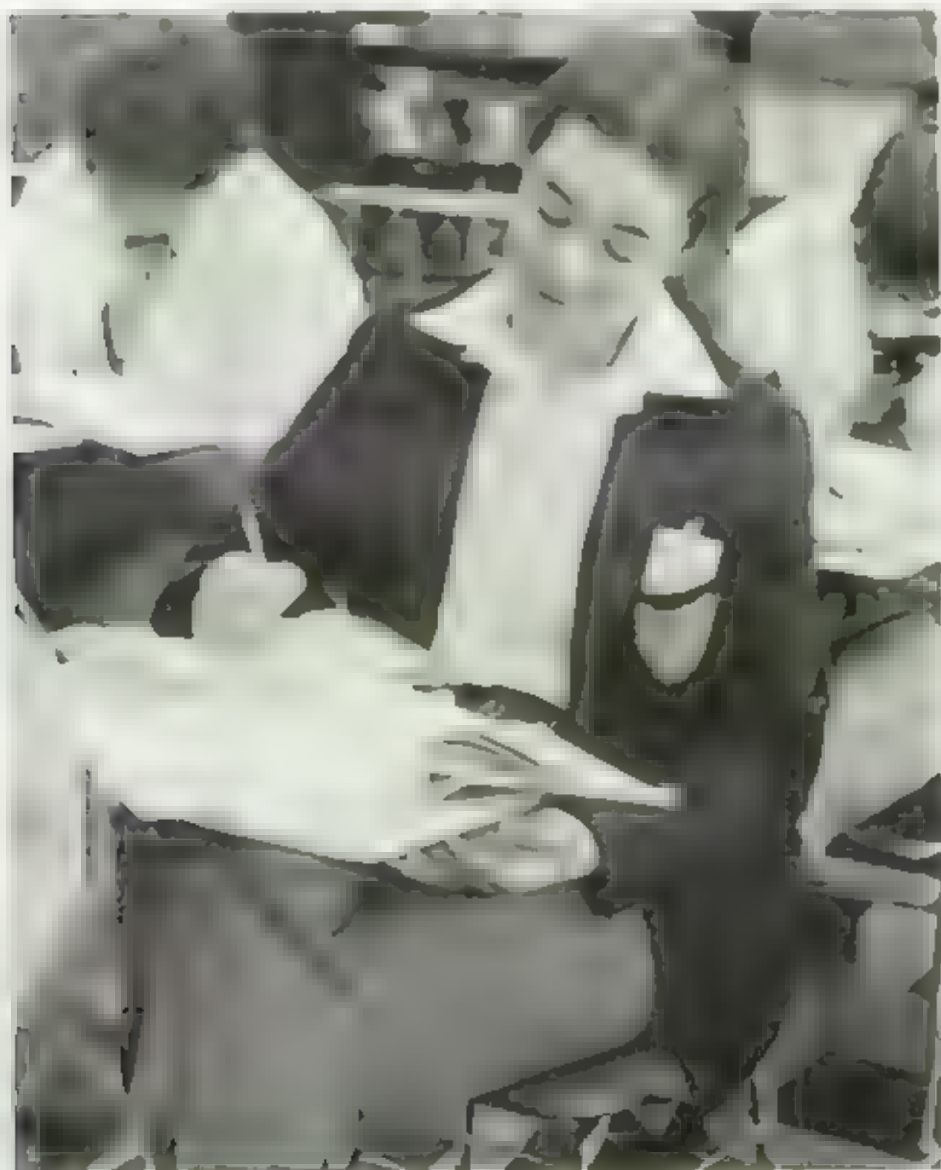

Throughout the gymnasium the beat of the drums occurs as Pat Andrus and John Brennen keep time.

[Stepping Into New Horizons

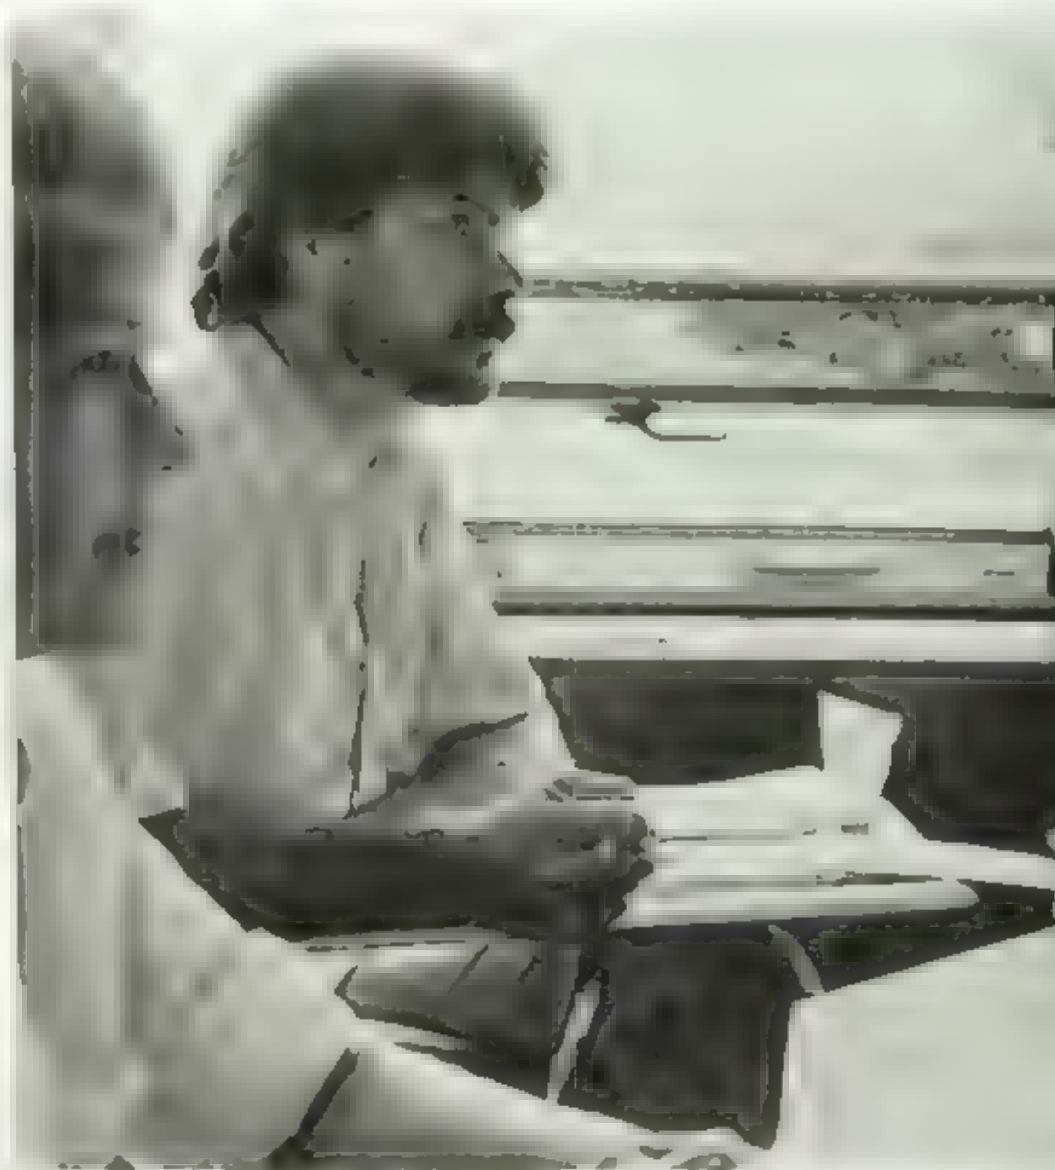

As convenient as it might be, the whole world doesn't speak English, but S.J.C.C. students were equal to this international challenge. They spent many long hours in French or Spanish class trying to decipher past tense from present and just what is a past participle? Learning a new language can be a frustrating task, but with the able help of Miss Borkovich and Mrs. Leite the students persevered. There were a few new twists to the language game this year however. Dr. Tom Hadley a M.D. in Fremont sat in on Spanish I class along with the students and tried with success to become bilingual. Also, Bernard Horwood, S.J.C.C.'s exchange student helped students with correct pronunciation and spelling in French II first semester and then entered Spanish I to increase his collection of languages.

In Spanish III, Pat Steinhauer, fully concentrating on what Miss Borkovich has given him to read confident that he will understand it

Working for a moment in Spanish III Anne Walserman double checks the questions so she can correctly translate the meaning

In Spanish I, the students found it rather challenging, as they had to work together with the new student, Dr. Tom Hadley, M.D.

Living In The] Future Now]

Home economics class had a unique flavor this year. It was not uncommon to walk into the classroom and find a group of boys leaning over a stove, swapping recipes. In Mrs. Marquist's home economics, students spent much of their time cooking — and eating. Usually, the ambitious creations turned out successfully, but now and then, there was an occasional burnt cake or a sagging soufflé. These minor setbacks didn't bother the students. They enjoyed their failures as much as their successes.

Home economics does not apply to girls only, as proven by Ed Steinbauer and Frank Trevino while working towards perfection in preparing a meal.

Live Calculators

Many times through this year the math students felt like they were drowning in a sea of tangents, laws, compasses, theorems and logarithms. When ever it appeared that one might go under for the last time a member of the math department would come through with a life-saving explanation. Mr. Geller, Mr. Hotz and Mr. Reineck led the students through many different types of problems and some were real mind bogglers, but in doing so they prepared the students to face the problems of the real world after graduation

Mathematical problems can be rather difficult to solve but in Algebra II Bryan Yeckley and Chris Carter realize it isn't so bad, after all

Calculators definitely work wonders in Math IV, as Laurie Miller and Sue Ackerman figure out the steps for the next trigonometry problem

Creating New Talents

The English department offered a little something for everyone this year. Not only were students encouraged to improve their skills in basic grammar, spelling and vocabulary, but they were also invited to explore the world of literature (both American and British), drama, and poetry.

Depending on the grade level, students were shown how to put together a meaningful, concise and well-organized paragraph, essay or research paper. They were also permitted to exercise their creative talents in the writing of short stories, plays and poetry.

Various electives gave interested students the opportunity to participate in such subjects as dramatics and speech.

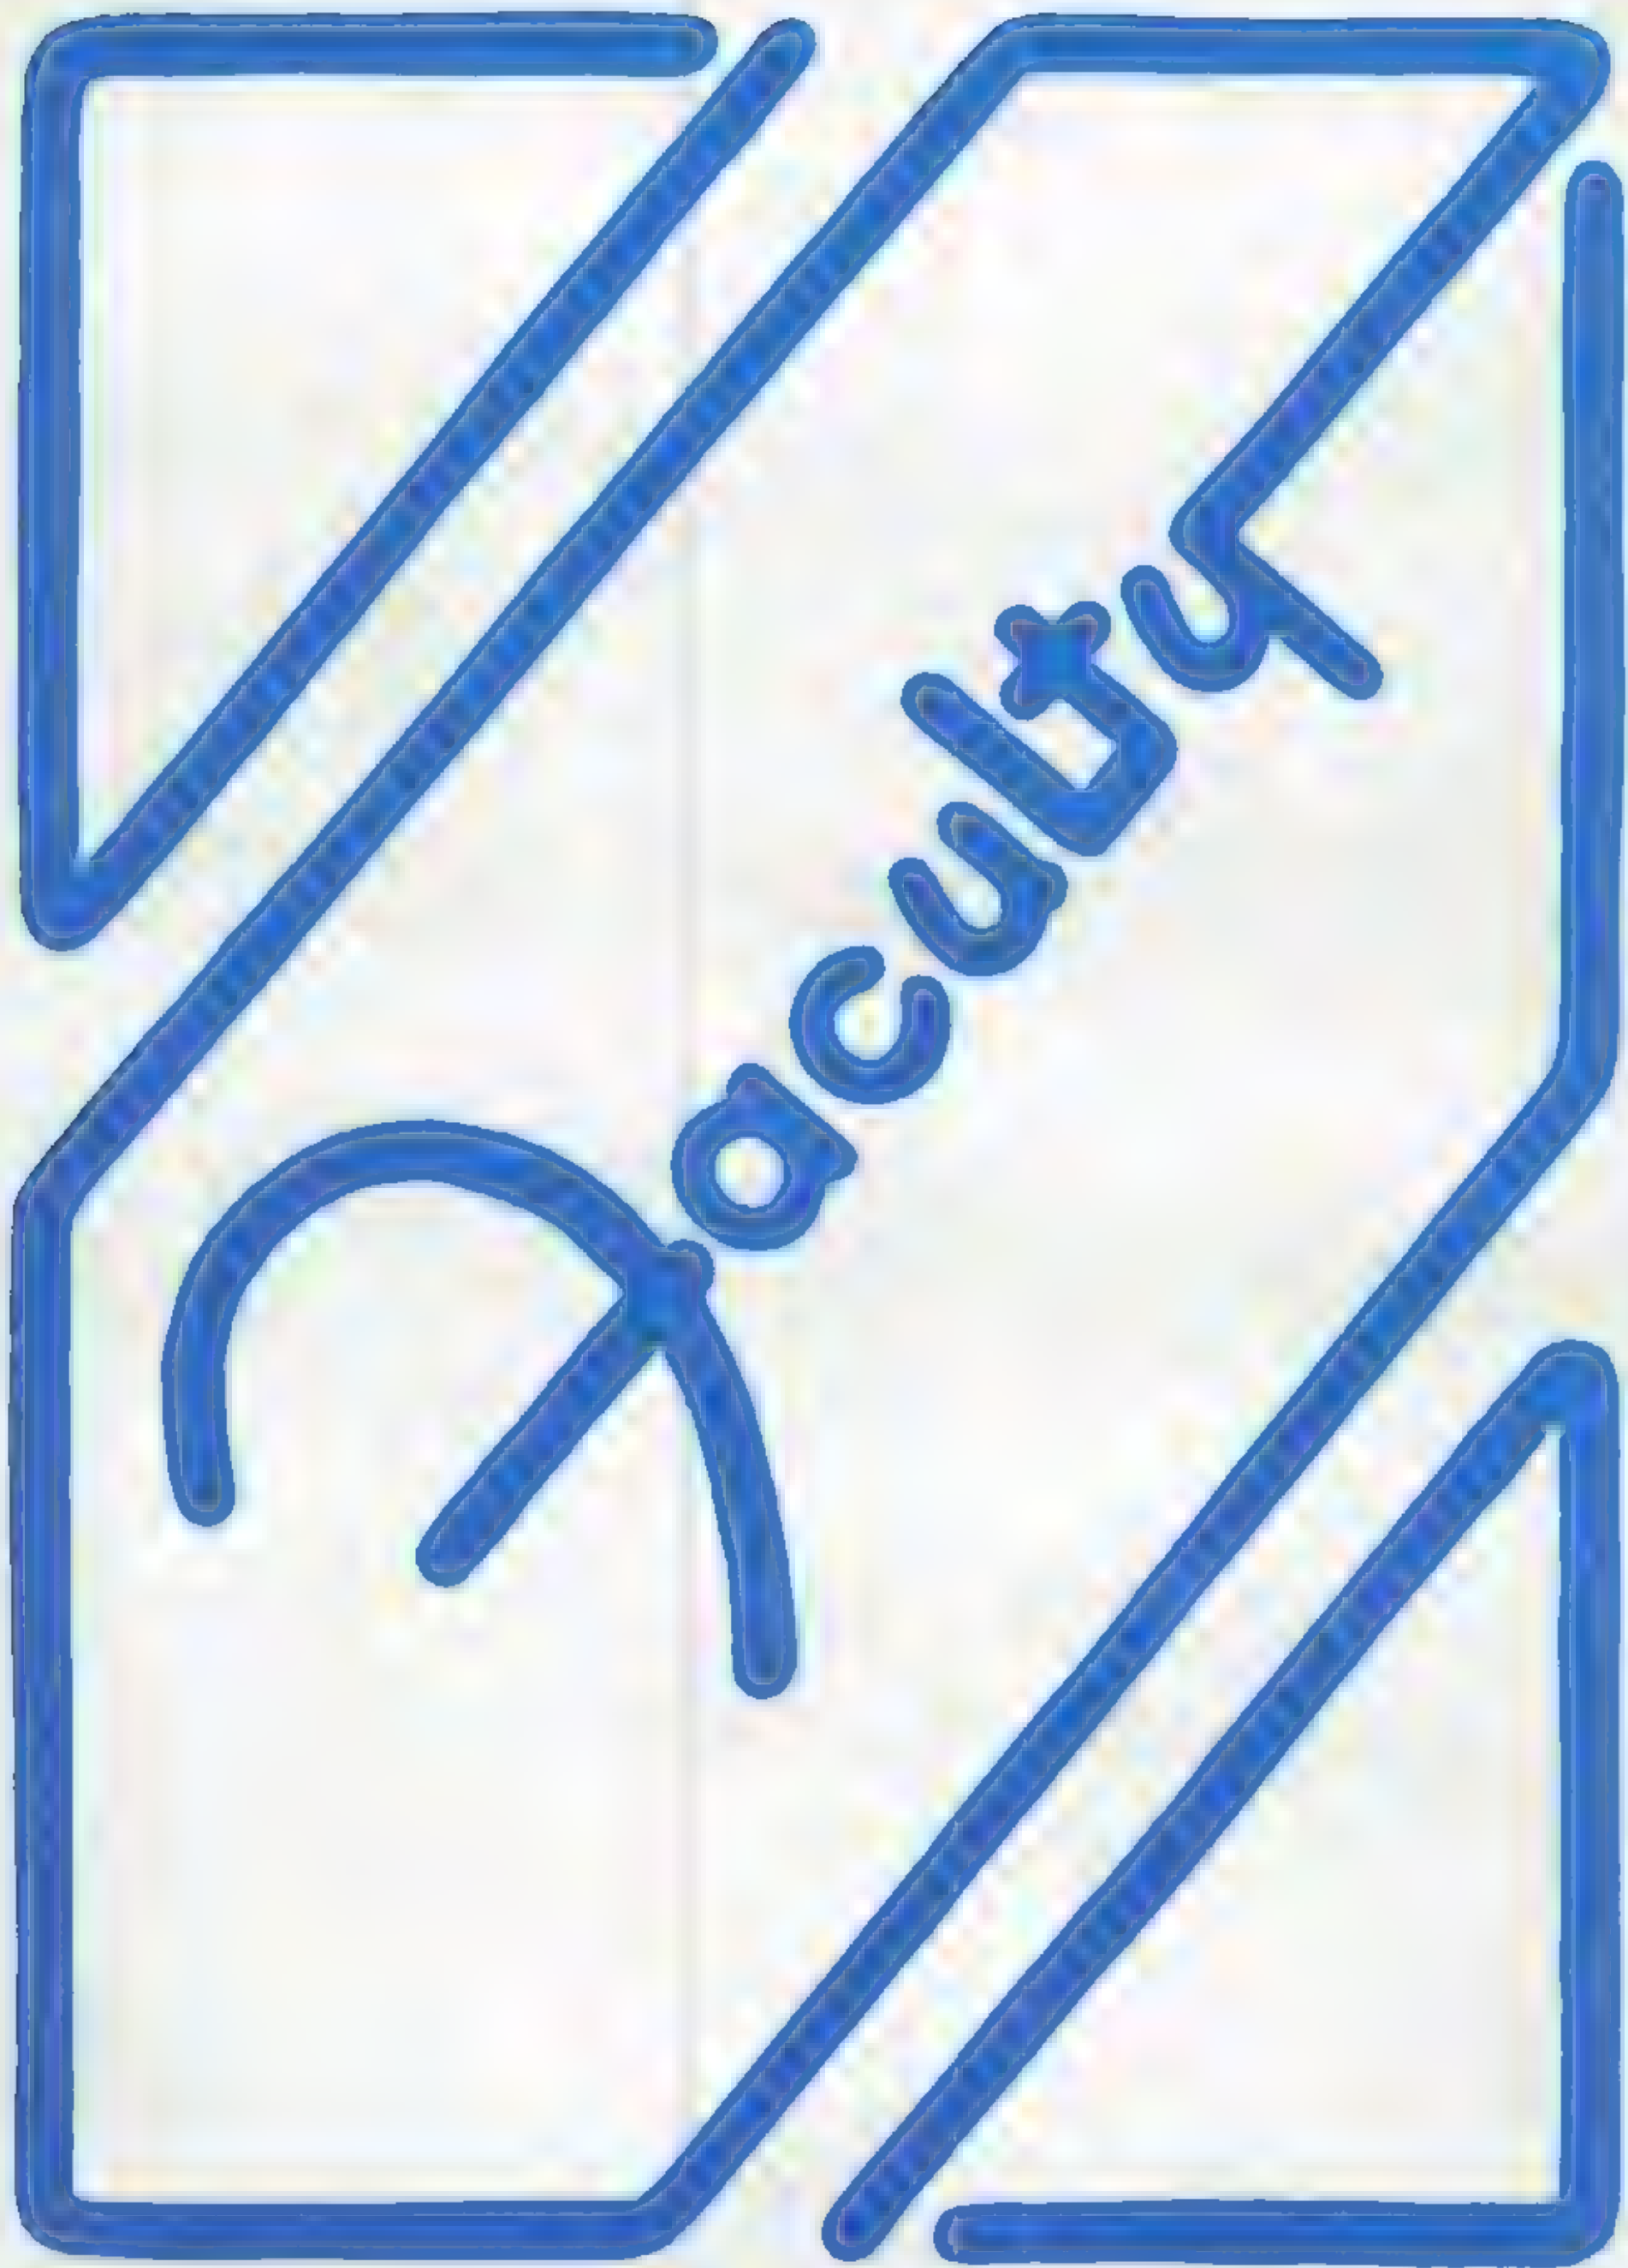

By using his own special technique, Ray Curbelo demonstrates to the students in creative communications that parades is an exciting way to communicate.

After reading a novel for sophomore English, Lisa Wenling gives a short report on the story's main idea.

Drama class brings out the "real" students, as Deb Dye and Lisa Spieldenner demonstrate their unique acting capabilities to Gina Florio, Jodi Krumb and Mary Binsack.

At the formal club meeting on Wednesday nights Mr. Bill Smith can always be found with his son, Little Bill, as they explore the historical artifacts which are sitting everywhere in Room 205.

The student attitude was much more positive here than in recent years. I noticed it in the students' actions, plus statistically, Mr. Hotz could even prove there were fewer disciplinary problems this year. There also was a better realization for concentration on academics. The whole school average was up, and it was great to see the seniors leading the way in this field.

The students, especially the seniors, should learn to put religion in their moral standards of every day, not just in mass and on retreats. It is important for our students to faithfully uphold our school traditions in the wearing of uniforms, athletics, and courteous school behavior. I feel this year, the students and teachers have developed a feeling of comfort towards each other. I hope this trend will continue to rise in the future, but it is peculiar to me that the principal is seen as a person who cannot be trusted.

As a teacher, I can tell you the most rewarding factor is to see both students and faculty establish trust between them.

The patron drive established the quality of the student body here at St. Joe. We originally set a goal of $18,000.00, but the students got out and worked their tails off and almost made $20,000.00. The group of students this year showed so much drive and determination during the drive. I hope they will continue this attitude and apply this kind of effort in ALL events in the future.

The special element here would be to let the students know that each one of them is an individual and that each is equally important and that when we get after a student, it's not because we dislike them, but what they are doing is what we dislike . . . I feel at home here since it is a small school and I can get to know the other teachers and students on a more personal basis.

On The Flip Side

The faculty at St. Joe consisted of a group of individuals who were more than your average teachers. For these people, the school day didn't end at 2:30. Sure, that's when the students left, but actual classtime was only the beginning. The faculty was always arranging field trips, retreats, study days and other activities to make school more interesting. Though it wasn't always as apparent as it should have been, the students were grateful to the outstanding faculty members here at SJCC.

The faculty here is quite special and they make you feel right at home. Several times, teachers have simply stopped in my room and asked me how I was doing and adjusting to St. Joe . . . The most rewarding factor of teaching is sharing the knowledge in the classroom, on the football field, and on the tennis courts.

I believe our students are special people. Each class has their own personality and redeeming quality. I am especially proud of the seniors, for their spirit of unity and leadership . . . I would hope in the future that there would be participation by more students, instead of the same ones being involved in so many things.

The students here are very easy to work with. They take great pride in the jobs they do and can handle constructive criticism and giving out compliments very well. Bishop Donovan transferred me here to St. Joe, and I'm happy he did it because it is super teaching in a school with as much pride as SJCC.

I like both teaching and coaching because it gives me a chance to communicate with the students both inside and outside the classroom . . . I hope people will get involved, but not just the students, but also parents, and the administration.

The spirit here is hot and cold . . . When we are winning, it is good; but when we lose, some one person usually gets the blame . . . The students have to learn to think "We're important" instead of "I'm important" . . . I hope to see people take more pride in school activities — other than sporting events.

The atmosphere here at St. Joe is intimate. The faculty, administration, and students have a chance to know you better, both in and out of the classroom . . . The students here make me feel right at home because they care about me as an individual.

Who says teaching is a 9-2-30 job? Doing a little extra work after school, John Moor shows that teaching is more than sitting behind a desk and giving difficult tests.

The most redeeming factor of teaching is keeping in touch with the youthful mind and spirit of the students . . . I came to St. Joe because of the faculty I already knew, and I also knew quite a few parishioners . . . In the future, I hope to see more social concern and outreach among the students and more spirit in academics.

I find that having students ask questions in class is the easiest way to teach, and the students here at St. Joe show attentiveness in class, and that helps make this school great . . . I think the school spirit is excellent, but needs to be felt in more ways than just at pep rallies and sporting events.

The students can make this the "year of the streaks" if they have higher endeavors in academics. The spirit here could be improved if we have more self-discipline. Helping the students surface their inborn capabilities and inspiring those who have the enthusiasm to learn is the most rewarding aspect of teaching.

I think the spirit here helps make St. Joe what it is — a great school . . . I feel you have to work with the students both inside and outside the classroom in order to develop confidence between students and faculty . . . I came to St. Joe because, at first, it was just a job, but then it matured into teaching in a good school with great students

The atmosphere here is super. It is great that students and faculty will go an extra mile to help each other . . . I came here to St. Joe to help the growth of the music department. I feel we should increase the quantity, but the quality of music is more important. I also like this job because my husband and I are only twelve miles apart during the day

"When I came to St. Joe, it was just an ordinary job at first but the students, faculty, and events have made the duties of the occupation grow so much. . . There is a pride in the school and a oneness among the students from all four parishes, that's what makes St. Joseph special . . . Pep rallies here are great, but I would like to see more enthusiasm towards academics . . . Through teaching I hope to relay good moral and spiritual judgement through books, the media, and other literature materials

This can be the "year of the streaks" if the seniors show some leadership instead of walking around with their heads in the clouds . . . I have worked here at S.J.C.C. for two years, but it has taken a while to get to know the students and faculty and feel comfortable in this atmosphere . . . I think I like working with the students most because some have a gruff exterior, but really are willing to open up if you work with them.

Some students make me feel right at home because they will come into the classroom before school and talk about things at home, problems with their friends, or just to talk . . . The spirit this year isn't as good as in past years because some students are apathetic about school and studies.

The spirit here is great in sporting events and other activities, but I think the students could do more to support the music and drama programs . . . Teaching is rewarding when a former student takes the time and energy to come back and say, "Thank-you, you helped me very much."

St. Joe provides a challenge for me because I don't live in the Fremont community, yet I feel getting to know your students well is just as important as teaching them.

I think the special quality St. Joe has is that the students really come to school to learn, and that's very important. Also, the teachers really care about the students' welfare in and out of the classroom.

In all honesty, I have to admit that football played a big factor in my coming to St. Joe.

The atmosphere here is super. I see students get along with other students, faculty blending with the other teachers, and a sense of "good will" between the teachers and students, and that might be the toughest element to create in a school.

The unity of the school is very special. The small community helps greatly, because everyone knows everybody else. This makes for a genuine atmosphere of caring — both on the part of the students as well as the teachers.

St. Joe is a very friendly place, because if there are any differences between people, they are willing to talk about the problems openly. I like the students and, because my son and daughter attend here, I see many of them outside of school.

E.P.C. = Every Person Counts

In The Year Of The Streaks

The Student Council was very productive this year. Their bear cookies, which they sold before the Gibsonburg football game, went over very well. They also added a new jukebox, pop machines, and (for the first time ever) a Space Invader and Asteroids machine. These games made the lunch period a little more exciting, while students aimed, fired and blew up their targets. These attractions added a lot of money to the student council treasury.

One new feature in Student Council was open meetings. Up until this year, the only ones that could attend the meetings were the class officers and representatives, but this was changed and anyone interested could come and sit in and received the same privileges as the members.

This year for the first time ever the Bloodmobile came to S.J.C.C. The event was organized and coordinated by the Student Council and organized very well. There was an above average turnout to donate for a school the size of S.J.C.C. Both student and adult participation was greatly appreciated by the Red Cross because of a shortage in Toledo which was making the volunteers work extra hours to help provide the much needed "Gift of Life."

Student Council also participated in Leadership Day, which brought not only the people who participated in it, but the whole school closer together. It made the students realize how much they all really needed each other. Another day that pulled the students closer together was Communication Day. This was only the second time that this kind of a day had been tried, and it yielded great results. All the students participated in this event, in which they were spread out in different groups, each group at a different house. The students were mixed up with all the classes tossed together. Many activities were held that got the seniors talking to freshmen, and sophomores to juniors, and so on. This day created so much togetherness that it will surely be held again.

This year's Student Council officers were President Becky Bertsch, Vice President Paul Ohm, Secretary Marybeth Boyer, Treasurer Rob Kerr and Sergeant at Arms Jack Hoffman.

Sparkle And Shine Girls

As the students walked into the cafeteria they were met with a barrage of posters, signs and colored things hanging from the ceiling. This was a sure sign that the spirit club had been at work the night before. This club, advised by Mrs. Linda Roberts, was a big shot in the arm for the school spirit. It tapped the hidden source of the student's energy and revealed the pride they had in their school.

The spirit club was also responsible for making and holding up the multi colored, creative hoops at the football and basketball games.

The members tackled every project with vigor and intensity and the energy they generated caused the rest of the school to get caught up in the spirit of things.

Organizing the meetings was the President Laura Foos with the help of Vice President Deb Dye. Dee Dee DeGidio kept records of attendance and collected the dues, acting as both secretary and treasurer. Other duties carried off by the officers included the many trips to Moore Business Forms to pick up the rolls and rolls of paper that were donated; also, these girls saw to the supplying of crayons, paint brushes and paints, as well as cleaning up after the job was done.

Time To Commission The Missions

For Another Year Of Caring

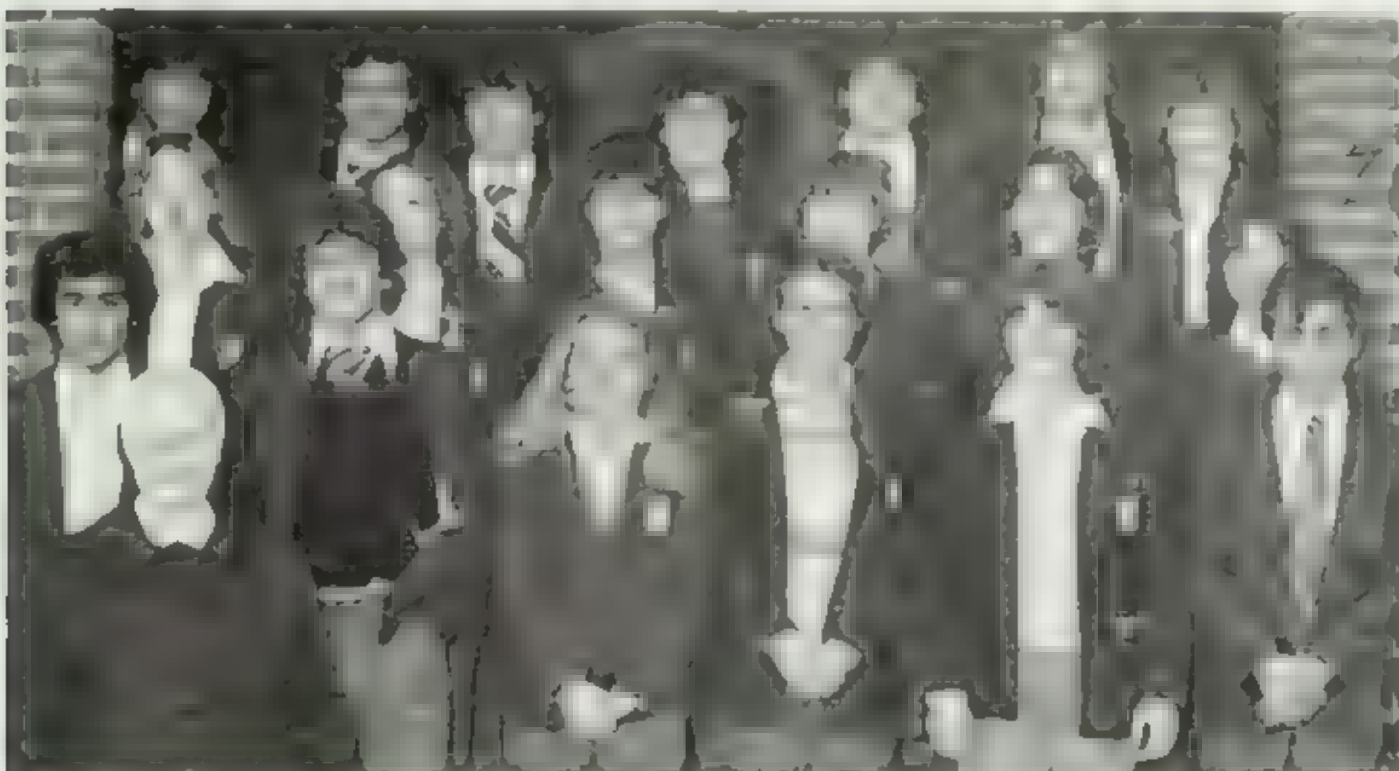

Mission representatives are reminded to pass out the mission envelopes. This became a familiar phrase on the morning announcements at SJCC this year. The representatives and their alternates formed the mission club. Their job was to collect money for the needy people overseas and their goal was to get each student to give their quota of $2.50.

Every day, or in some cases, every week, the mission envelopes were passed out and would return either empty or holding big bucks. When the students fulfilled their quota, they were put on the "Quota Honor Roll". The cheap-skates who didn't give anything were billed as "Do-Nothings". The mission club didn't depend solely on personal contributions. Sr. Mary Victor cornered the market on candy bars and sold them during lunch and after school with the profits going to the missions. On the Tuesday before Lent, there was a Mardi Gras, where during 4th period students could buy munchies, attempt to beat the odds in a game of chance, and other activities to raise mission money.

There were also several mission Masses and a mission assembly when Sr. Mary Bernardus came to speak about the missions and encourage the students to reach a goal of $3,000 for this year.

Flashy Students Become Doctors Of The Darkroom

This year marked the beginning of the photography club at St. Joe. This club, advised by Mr. Gary Geller, was made up of only five students ranging in age from freshmen to seniors. In this club the members learned all the techniques of darkroom work and of handling a camera. In the future, Mr. Geller plans to have the club contribute pictures to the yearbook. The meetings were held once a month, and they occasionally had guest speakers come who were professional photographers. Also, looking into the future further, the club is planning on sponsoring a school-wide photo contest.

The Ancient Past Comes Alive To A Number Of After Hours Historians

This years historical club was advised as always, by our own personal historian, Mr. William Smith. History was taken out of the stereotype of being a boring, required course and put into a new light. About 40 students signed up for the club this year, and were involved in a number of money-making activities, the proceeds of which were put into the club treasury. Their goal was to make enough money to finance a trip to Mohican State Park for the group. The club was lead by President Jack Hoffman, Secretary Laurie Miller, Vice President Dee Dee DeGidio and Treasurer Sherrie Widman.

Mr. Smith also advised the fencing club

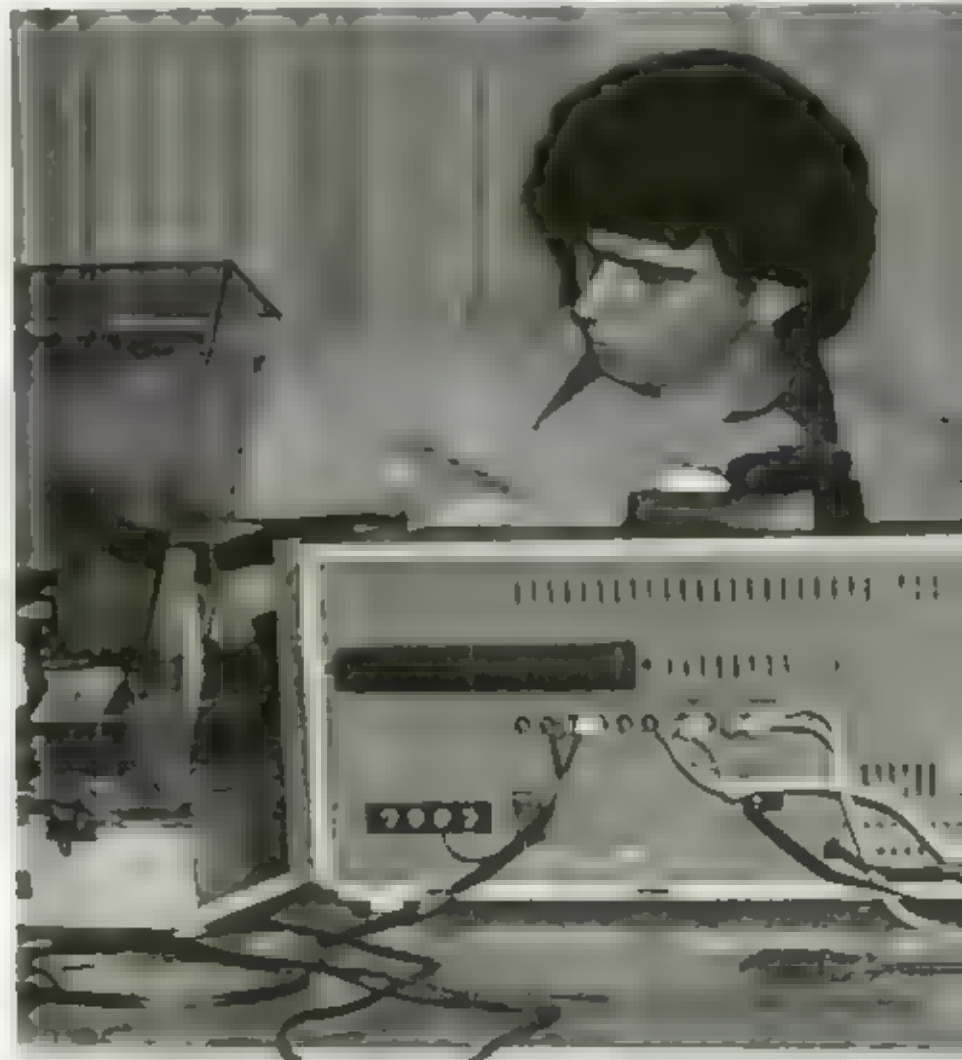

This ancient art was practiced by 8 students (4 teams) which were made up of a mixture of every class but freshmen. This club was started last year, but they didn't really get enough equipment to have good practices until this year. Fencing was like any other athletic event, even though it wasn't recognized as a sport at most schools, their clubs did compete against each other, and St. Joe intends to compete against them in the future. There were two girls and six boys in the club and Mr. Smith said that, "A couple of members are very good, and the others are coming along fine." He also thought that, "Considering the fact that we've only had the club two years, it's doing pretty well."

Working To Help

The S.J.C.C. Key Club was a service club, run in conjunction with the Kiwanis Club. They got started too late to get affiliated nationally this year, but they intend to pay their national dues next year. This club was made up of sophomores, juniors and seniors who paid dues and held bake sales to raise their funds. With these funds, they executed many projects. They adopted a family at Christmas, and bought them presents and food. They also had a city clean-up project in the Spring. Members also took turns attending the Kiwanis luncheon, once a week. These free lunches were held at the Elks lodge. Club officers were President Tom Stotz, Vice President Jodi Kramb and Secretary Treasurer Cheryl Kuzma.

Academic All-Americans

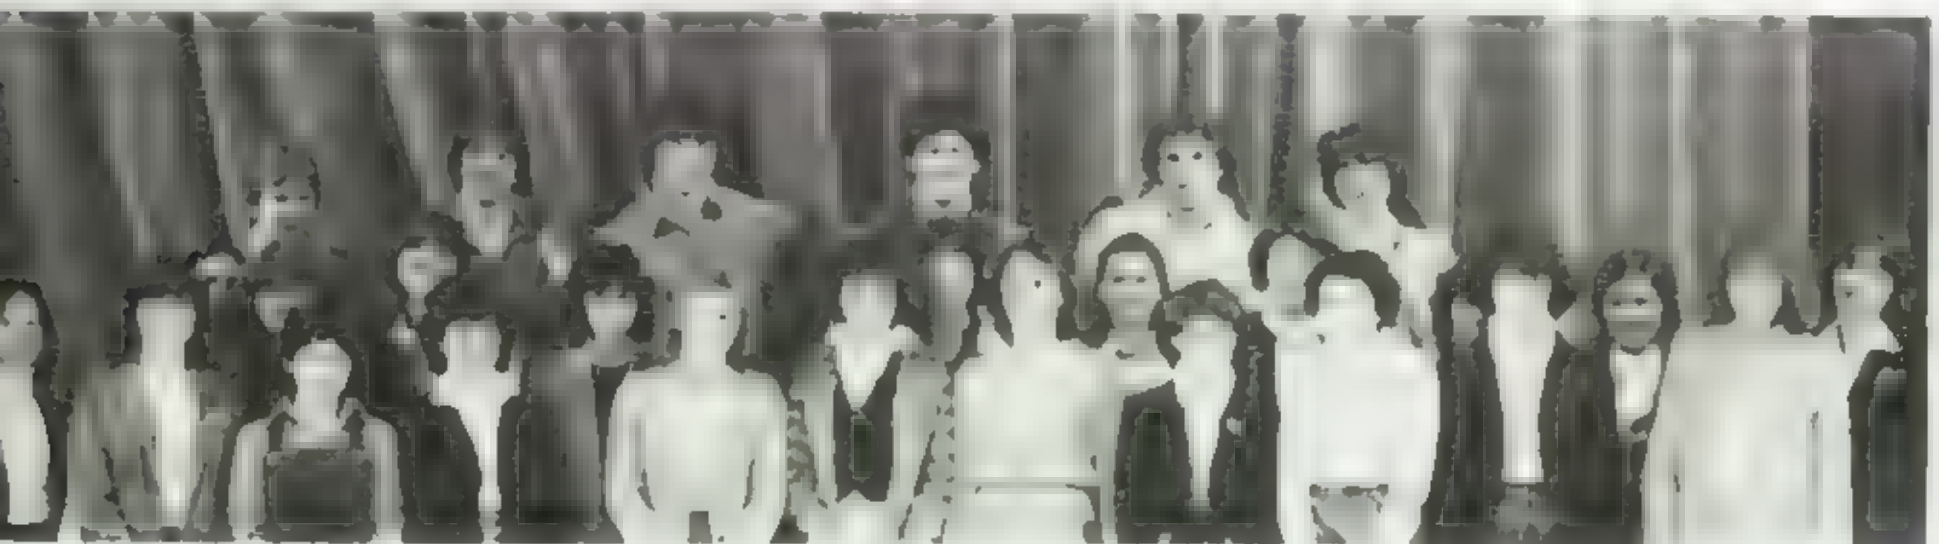

The National Honor Society was an organization founded to honor high school students who excelled academically. To become a member, a student had to have the composite average in all his or her classes of a 93. Besides an "A" average, the student had to display qualities of leadership, service, and responsibility. The National Honor Society was open to any sophomore, junior and senior who met these requirements. This year, the induction ceremony for new members took place at St. Ann's Church. Club officers were Pres. Tim Cullen, V-Pres. Jan Frederick, Sec. Laurie Miller, Treas. Dee Dee DiGidio and Advisor Sister Mary Louise, S.N.D.

Tutors Today; Teachers Tomorrow

By Lending A Helping Hand

St. Joe and St. Ann Elementary students had a lot of help this past year from the future teacher's club. The club members put their study halls to good use during various days throughout the week. Advised by Sister Elizabeth, they went to the grade schools and tutored the young students in assignments the teachers had pre-planned for them. By doing this, these future teachers gained practical and useful experience that they can surely put into action in their careers. During the year the club also went on many field trips, and travelled to other grade schools outside of Fremont. This gave them a glimpse into how other area schools were set up. Mary Ellen Masnado, a club member, summed it all up by saying, "It's a unique learning experience, being right in the classroom, helping the teacher with actual classroom work."

At St. Joseph Grade School, Paula Spieldenner patiently spends one of her tutoring days with first grader Michelle Cronin and an interesting story book from the library.

The two main characters in the production of "Blithe Spirit" are the young men, Jodi Kramb and Michael P.J. Foos.

Show Time! Future Superstars

The houselights dim . . . The curtain opens . . . There's a spotlight on center stage. SJCC presents — The Drama Club! This past year the drama club consisted of the drama class and a few other interested students. Throughout the year the club went to several plays presented by other drama clubs, such as "Much Ado About Nothing", written by Shakespeare and presented by some students at Heidelberg College. The main event of the year was their own production of "Blithe Spirit" which was presented in November. For this production, the club was divided into two casts. While one cast was performing, the other would be working backstage, and others served refreshments at the intermission. The Drama club also gave a presentation of a lesser degree to some of the grade school in the area after Christmas vacation. The club's President was Michael P.J. Foos, Vice-President Jodi Kramb, Secretary Betsy Pert, and Treasurer Mary Ellen Masnado. Supervisor, director and all-around academy award winner, Valerie Myers

The End Is Just Another Beginning

Just as every rainbow must eventually fade away, so must every school year finally come to a close. 1981 followed true to form and though the memories and colors may someday fade, the closeness and unity brought about by E.P.C. shall continue to live on through the coming years. The students were so thoroughly blended that while they kept their individuality, they will never stray from the unique unit they created
